

Truman Assists as Gov. Nelson Opens Reelection Drive

Former President Guest Speaker At $50-Per-Plate State Dinner

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Milwaukee — With a welcome assist from the last Democratic president of the United States, Gov. Gaylord Nelson Thursday night launched his campaign for reelection about 11 months after being sworn in as the first governor of his party in a quarter of a century.

Former President Harry S. Truman helped, but the fact that more than 500 persons attended Nelson's kick-off banquet suggested both the eagerness and the probable strength of the Democratic organization of the state.

Rebels Flee Into Jungles

Continue to Wage Propaganda War Against Kubitschek

BY EDWARD T. BUTLER

Rio de Janeiro — Defiant air force officers waging a propaganda war against President Juscelino Kubitschek fled deeper into the Amazon jungles today. Rebels charge the Kubitschek regime is riddled with graft and communism.

They seized five planes yesterday and held up in the tiny town of Aragarças, 1,100 miles northwest of Rio, but took off early today for a new base of operations, taking along a 4-engine airliner and one of its passengers, the air force said.

Seize Hostage
It was reported they took as hostage Remi Archer, president of the Bank of Amazonia in Belem, who was flying home from Rio when the passenger plane was commandeered in flight and diverted to Aragarças. The other 37 passengers were unharmed.

The air force expressed belief the rebels—reported to number 17 to 27—may have fled to Cachimbo, 1,200 miles northwest of Rio, or to Jacareacanga, where a similar pocket revolt petered out in 1956.

Hope to Find Capsule

Monkey Launched Into Space by U. S. Rocket

Washington — A Navy plane reported at noon today that it has sighted in the Atlantic the space capsule that carried a monkey on a test flight.

Washington — The United States today sent a monkey up in a space capsule such as will be used in later efforts to put a man in space.

A Little Joe rocket carrying the capsule was fired at Wallops Island, Va., at 11:15 a.m. The national aeronautics and space administration here announced the launching. It said reports from the scene were that "the launching looks good," and that everything proceeded smoothly.

A NASA spokesman said the mechanism separating the capsule from the rocket apparently performed as planned and the capsule was sent on a long arcing course out over the Atlantic.

Plans had called for the capsule to be released from the rocket 40 to 75 miles above the earth, parachuted back and recovered.

There was no immediate word as to the height the capsule actually obtained.

The ships included the destroyers Strong and Borie and two smaller vessels, the Fort Mandan and the Papago. Divers were aboard the Papago to assist if the capsule landed in shallow water or sank.

A principal purpose of the experiment was to test at high altitude an emergency device for separation of the capsule from the rocket.

Other important studies were involved.

Aboard the capsule, in addition to the monkey, were some small biological specimens—spears of barley, nerve cells of a rat, test tubes of bacteria cultures and flour beetle eggs and larvae.

Secondary missions of the test included measurements of the effects of high acceleration and weightlessness on the monkey, and a radiation on lower forms of life.

Investigate Strange Ailment in Texas Town

Denton, Texas — A strange sickness, described by some doctors as an unknown virus, affected several hundred persons in this north Texas town yesterday and the night before.

Most were students at North Texas State college where President J. C. Matthews said college doctors believed the illness was not caused by food poisoning. Symptoms were similar, however.

Rome Welcomes Ike as He Lands During Heavy Rain

New Plea For End of Walkout

Washington — America's real message to the world, says President Eisenhower, is "peace and friendship, in freedom."

The president hit hard on that theme last night in a televised address to the nation just before leaving on a 3-week trip that will take him half way around the world.

He described his trip as a mission of peace and good will.

He also renewed his appeal for an end to the steel strike, and said efforts to sustain the peace depend on a healthy economy.

He spoke of "a peaceful barrier, erected by freedom" in plugging for mutual security or foreign aid spending.

Would Reduce Tensions
Speaking from his White House office, the president said:

"I shall try to convey to everyone our earnestness in striving to reduce the tensions dividing mankind—an effort first requiring, as indeed Mr. Khrushchey agrees, the beginning of mutual disarmament. Of course, I will stress that the first requirement for mutual disarmament is mutual verification."

With the spirit of Camp David still prevailing, this was the only reference to the Soviet leader in Eisenhower's 15-minute address.

Nowhere in his address did the president use the words "communism" or "communism."

His references to the com-

Traffic Death Toll In October Shows First Decline of Year

Chicago — The steep, steady climb of the nation's traffic death toll has been halted.

The October total was 5 per cent below the tally for October, 1958. It was the first month of this year to show a decline. The number of fatalities, 3,420, was the lowest for any October in 10 years.

The National Safety Council, in reporting the figures today, said the toll for the first 10 months of this year was 30,560—2 per cent above the total for the corresponding period of 1958.

Mass Funeral Planned for 100 Dead in French Flood

200 Fatalities Counted and About 100 Persons Missing

BY HARVEY HUDSON

Frejus, France — Rescue teams slogged through muck and debris today, searching for more victims of the Malpas dam disaster. Grieving relatives prepared for a mass funeral for 110 dead.

Hospital authorities reported 200 counted dead.

Officials believed about 100 persons were missing, some buried under silt which lay nine feet deep in places. They said this estimate was based on requests from relatives of those not yet found, and there might be more.

Only one foreigner, a Belgian was reported dead.

About 65 were injured. Some 30 were still hospitalized.

Rush Food, Water

The mass funeral was asked by officials in an effort to clear crowded hospitals—where shrouded bodies lined the corridors—and make room for the living.

Helicopters, a m balances and some 5,000 troops fanned out over the 4-mile-long Reyran river valley, where the Malpas dam crumbled.

Given Job to Police Law

John L. Holcombe To Direct War Against Corruption

Washington — John L. Holcombe, lawyer and career government administrator, today was picked to head the bureau that will police the anti-corruption provisions of the new labor law.

Sec. of Labor James P. Mitchell said Holcombe will be responsible for running down all complaints and violations involving unions and employers under the law's provisions.

He comes to the key labor department post from the job of director of the defense department's office of programing and control.

Holcombe disclosed he is taking a $1,500 annual pay cut in the new job.

Nationalists See New Attack by Reds

Taipei, Formosa — A "ranking officer" in the Hsu gorp of islands was quoted today as saying there are mounting indications that the Chinese communists might launch a full-scale attack at any moment on the nationalist-held islands at the northern end of the Formosa strait.

Nationalist Chinese warnings about the possibility of a major communist action have been sounded frequently, but for months things have been very quiet on the offshore island front.

President Declares His 22,000-Mile Mission Is One of Peace, Good Will

BY STAN CARTER

Rome — Ancient Rome gave President Eisenhower a rainy but warm welcome today at the start of his 22,000-mile "mission of peace and good will."

Even the communists, taking a cue from Nikita S. Khrushchey, joined in the welcome with banners saying: "Communists of Rome salute President Dwight Eisenhower."

The American president told greeters at Rome's Ciampino airport that his message for each of the 11 countries he visits is one of friendship and freedom, and he hopes it "will be heard in every country where communications are allowed freely."

Eisenhower expressed pleasure in landing "in the great city which was for so long the very center of all western civilization."

He said he was glad to come to Italy, too, because of the "ties of blood which unite our two countries." He noted that millions of Americans sprang from Italian origins.

"So our friendship is not merely official, but comes from the people, from relatives clasping hands across the sea."

Praised by Gronchi
The president said he looked forward with eagerness to his talks here with President Giovanni Gronchi, Premier Antonio Segni and other Italian leaders concerning his search for "peace with justice" in the world.

Gronchi hailed the American president's "great political sagacity" and his humanity in undertaking his historic mission.

Rome's Mayor Urbano Ciocchetti assured Eisenhower that the Italian capital "looks forward to the president's visit."

Benson's Gall Bladder Removed

Washington — Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson underwent surgery for removal of the gall bladder today at Walter Reed Army hospital. His condition afterward was reported good.

The hospital said the one and a half-hour operation was performed by the army's surgeon general, Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton.

Others on the surgical team were Lt. Col. Arthur Cohen of Kew Gardens, N. Y., Maj. Latimer Booth of Fullerton, Calif., and Capt. John L. Griswold of Montclair, N.J.

Benson entered the hospital Wednesday after suffering intermittent attacks of gall bladder colic. He is expected to remain there 10 days or more.

Wins Forgiveness

Youth Who Shot Foster Mother Returns Home

New York — Teenager Robert Murphy has ended the next day. The youth disappeared after two days of hiding in subways and begged forgiveness of the shooting. He said he hid in subways, walked the streets, slept in halls and to kill with a rifle.

At the sight of her as she lay in critical condition in a hospital ward, Robert burst into tears and sobbed, "Mother, for his return he decided to er, forgive me for what I've done."

"I forgive you, Bobby," he said to police. "They asked me to come in. So I'm here."

The 39-year-old woman was shot when she entered her darkened Brooklyn home last Tuesday night. Wounded in the chest and shoulder with 22-caliber slugs, she moaned for two days for her son between lapses of consciousness.

Robert gave himself up yesterday to face a felonious assault charge.

The tired, disheveled 16-year-old said: "I don't know what got into me."

Asked why he did it, he replied: "I was thinking about killing Mom for the last two months. We never saw eye to eye on anything."

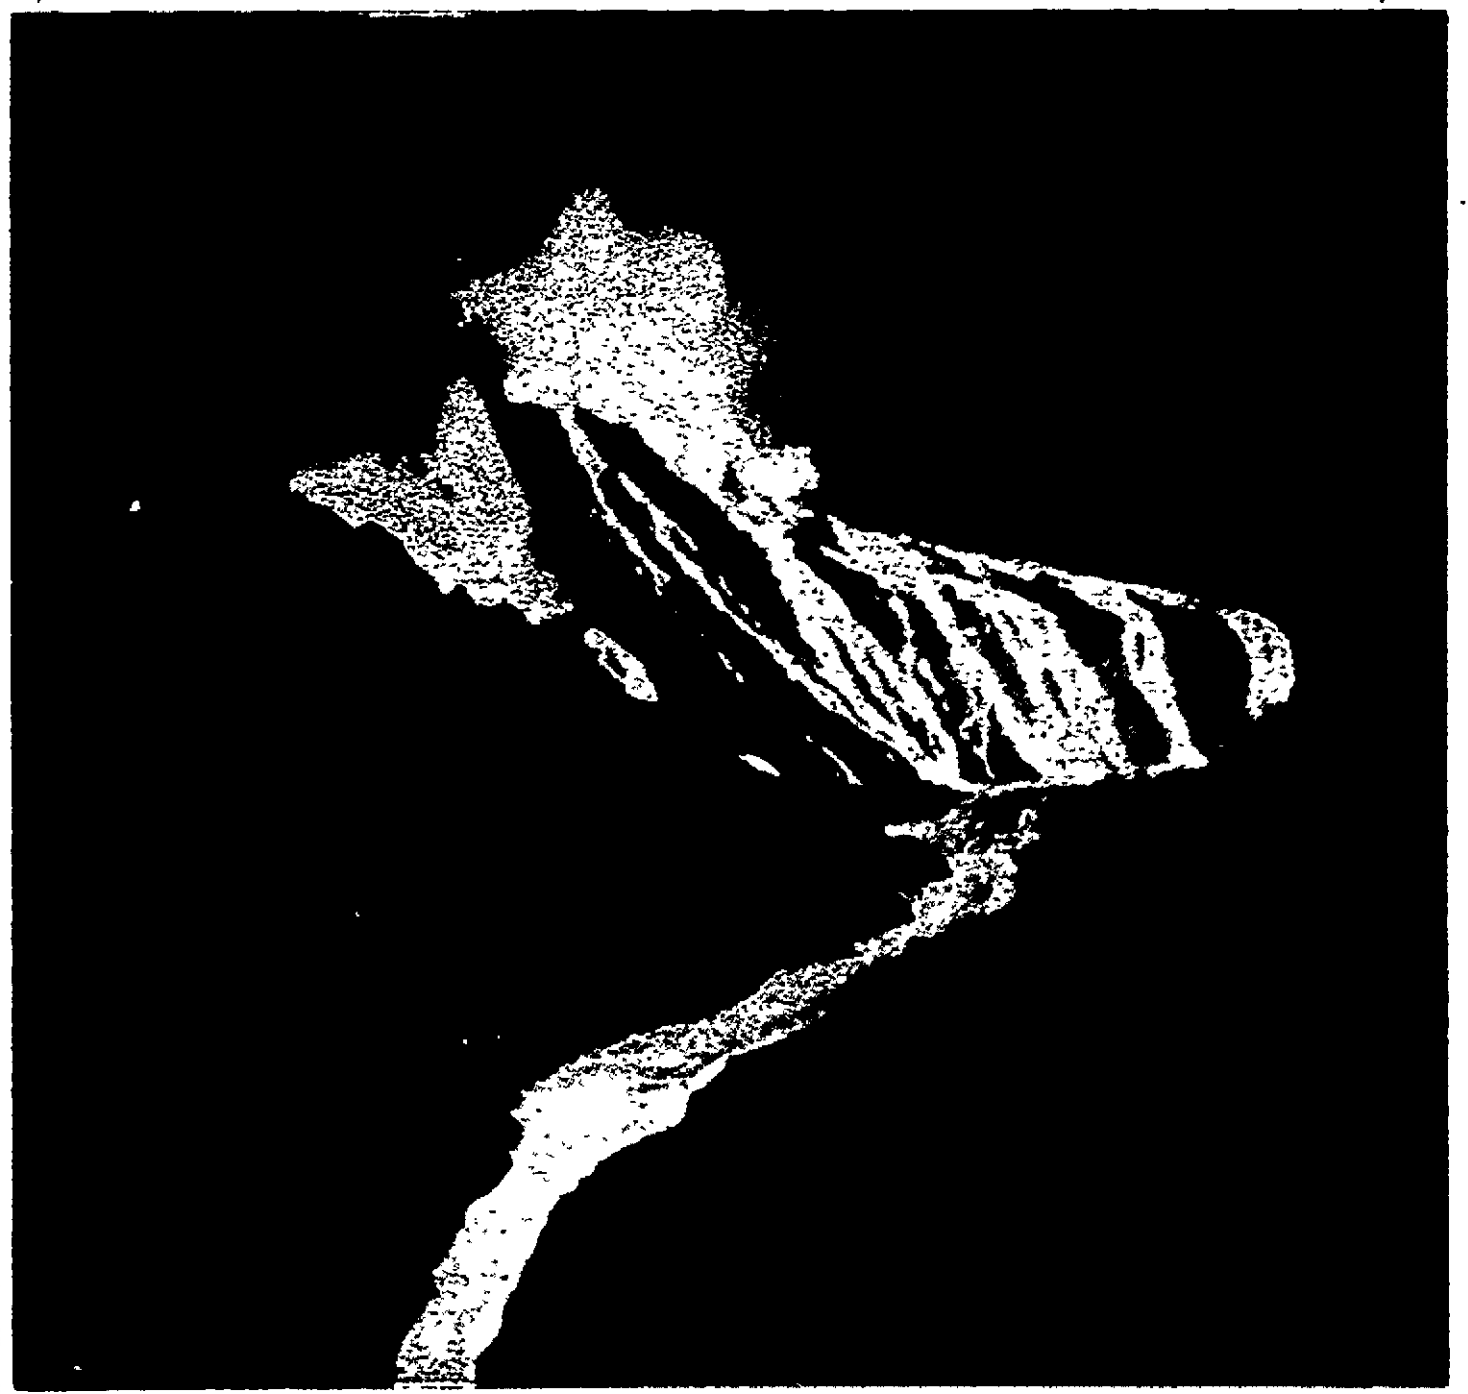

What made him decide to do it when he did? "The thing that finally made me decide to do it was the supper dishes she made; me do . . . the night before, the shooting."

Steel Strike Talks Remain Deadlocked

Both Sides Refuse to Budge in Spite of President Eisenhower's
New Plea for Prompt Settlement

Washington —(AP)— Steel labor and management negotiators clung firmly to their entrenched positions today despite President Eisenhower's urgent new plea that the nation's economy requires a prompt settlement.

Neither side showed any sign of budging. The industry said again its proposals are fair and reasonable. And the union, without proffering any new terms, charged the employers were being obstinate.

Eisenhower, as part of his farewell radio-TV address to the nation last night before leaving on his goodwill mission abroad, said the nation's economy and its defense pos-

Chinese Reds Denounce Ike's Goodwill Tour

Peiping Blast Out Of Tune With Other Red Announcements

Tokyo —(AP)— Red China today denounced President Eisenhower's goodwill tour in a note out of tune with the Soviet Union and other communists.

Peiping let loose with a propaganda barrage charging the president is on a mission "to sell a false peace."

In sharp contrast, Moscow radio gave Soviet listeners favorable reports on the start of the president's trip and Italian communists saluted Eisenhower with welcoming posters on his first stop, in Rome.

Peiping's hostile line tended to strengthen the feeling of western observers here that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and red China's Mao Tse-tung do not see eye-to-eye on the need for ending the cold war.

It understood red China's increasing suspicion against any relaxation of tension in Asia.

Slandered China
The New China News agency (NCNA)—organ of red China's ruling communist party—charged the president in his eve-of-departure press conference had "slandered China as taking a course of 'moving in with force' on the Chinese-Indian border issue."

One of Eisenhower's major stops is New Delhi. Prime Minister Nehru has said he intends to bring up India's border dispute with China in his talks with the president.

The Chinese news agency said that the president wanted "to let people believe" the United States has no territorial ambitions but charged he tried to ignore the situation in Panama.

Death Splits Vaudeville's Famed Duncan Sister Act

Chicago —(AP)— Rosetta Duncan, 58, one of the famed Duncan sisters, veteran vaudeville comedy team, died today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Tuesday.

Miss Duncan, who suffered fractures of both legs, at least 10 ribs, Miss Duncan and internal injuries, died in suburban Berwyn.

Miss Duncan was injured when the car she was driving struck a bridge post in suburban Cicero. She was alone in the car, driving to the home of friends after appearing with her sister, Vivian, 60, at a night club in suburban Lyons. Vivian was at her sister's bedside when she died.

The Duncan sisters had been a show business team for 41 years. They hit the top in 1923 with a blackface act, "Topsy and Eva," adapted from "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

They retired in 1942 but came back 10 years later with a new act built around the nostalgia for vaudeville. They opened at a night club in Lyons last summer for a short run. But their show drew big crowds and their engagement was extended.

Rosetta's home was in North Hollywood, Calif. Vivian lives in Sherman Oaks, another Los Angeles suburb.

Police Hold Mickey Cohen

Others Jailed in Connection With Hoodlum Killing

Sherman Oaks, Calif. —(AP)— Underworld figure Mickey Cohen and several cronies

Whalen Miss Hashagen were locked up today in the killing of a hoodlum who died as he lived — a tough guy.

Jack Whalen, 41, a bookie known for brutality, was shot in the head Wednesday night. Cohen sat six feet away in the crowded restaurant.

Police booked on suspicion of murder: Cohen; Miss Claretta (Sandy) Hashagen, 18-year-old dancer-model, his date; George Bart Piscitelle, alias George Perry, 28, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Tony Reno, 25, singer known also as Anthony Amereno.

Question Prisoners
The bookings admittedly were intended to give police a chance to question the prisoners at length. Cohen denied any part of the killing. Stories of the killing varied widely. But they agreed on one thing:

Whalen was roughing up a man who presumably owed a gambling debt.

Police were told the dead man visited several bars, apparently looking for someone. He was reportedly out to collect a $900 gambling debt.

Cohen, an ex-big-time bookie and an ex-convict, has witnessed many gangland slayings—some of them aimed at him. He personally shot and killed rival gambler Maxie Shuman in 1945, he told police, claiming self defense. He was cleared.

Tells of Killing
Cohen said he was alone except for his dog, Mickey Junior, who ate linguini — a kind of Italian spaghetti—beside him.

"A man walked in and he went over to a table near me. I never saw them boys before.

Lung Cancer Question Awaits Doctor's Report

Proof of Cigaret Smoking Aiding Disease Shown in Known Conclusions

Dallas, Texas —(AP)— A scientist today offered figures which the American Medical association said show lung cancer and conditions which lead to it "depend almost completely on the number of cigarettes smoked."

Dr. Oscar Auerbach of the East Orange, N.J., veterans hospital provided the figures after studying 19,797 slides of lung tissue.

In a paper prepared for the AMA meeting here, Dr. Auerbach declared:

Major Factor
"These anatomical observations seem to us to indicate that cigarette smoking is today a major factor in the causation of lung cancer in man."

He added, "This is in complete agreement with evidence previously obtained" from extensive surveys.

The tissue slides were obtained from 402 men who died of numerous causes in the East Orange VA hospital and other hospitals mostly in up-state New York.

Cause of death was concealed from the cancer researchers to prevent possible slanted conclusions.

Smoking Habits
Dr. Auerbach and his associates said smoking habits determined not only whether each individual had lung disease, but also the amount of cancerous, non-cancerous and pre-cancerous damage to lung tissue.

Of the 402 deaths, lung cancer caused 63. All the cancer cases were smokers and 60 smoked cigarettes.

The 55 non-smokers or light smokers showed almost no indication of pre-cancer cell changes.

But among the smokers, as it was dark in there," Cohen said.

"Suddenly, I heard shots. . . I turned around to someone behind me and I asked: 'Look to see—am I bleeding?'"

Miss Hashagen said Whalen walked in and hit a man sitting at a nearby table.

"Then I heard shots," she said. "It ruined my dinner."

Manitowoc Co-op Gets Court Order

Fond du Lac —(AP)— A temporary injunction was issued in circuit court here Thursday ordering the Manitowoc county Cooperative Pure Milk association, Inc., to refrain from what the Pure Milk Products cooperative charged were attempts to raid its membership.

Judge Russell E. Hanson issued the injunction which restrains the small Manitowoc dairying group from inducing or attempting to induce any PNMP member to breach or repudiate his contract with PNMP.

A court hearing will be held on the order later.

Top Officers Named as Guests of Contractor At Resort in Bahamas

Gen. Nathan Twining Among Those Invited by Martin Firm

Washington —(AP)— Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and a score of other officers were named today as guests of a defense contractor for golf jaunts in the Bahamas.

Testimony made public by a house investigating subcommittee also listed Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas as a visitor at the golf resort on Eleuthera island, the Cotton Bay club — but said Douglas paid his own expenses. Douglas confirmed this.

Other Guests
Listed as a guest of the Martin company at the club was retired air force Lt. Gen. E. R. Quesada, at the time a special assistant to President Eisenhower and now administrator of the federal aviation agency.

Other air force and navy officers listed as Martin guests included Gen. Emmett O'Donnell Jr., now commander in chief, Pacific air forces; Rear Adm. F. M. Hughes, commander of the fifth naval district, Norfolk, Va.; and Gen. S. E. Anderson, now commander of the air materiel command.

Douglas and Quesada were at the club for a weekend in February 1958 when other visitors included Twining, Mrs. Twining, their son, married daughter and infant grandson. The subcommittee was told. Twining informed the subcommittee he had made three visits to the resort, one each in the years 1957, 1958 and 1959. He said he spent $40 to $50 for caddy fees, tips and personal necessities.

"The trips were made for recreational purposes, golf, swimming and relaxation," he wrote. "During each of my three visits, I received the normal courtesies extended by a host to a guest."

Tried to Pay
Various of the other officers named said they had considered themselves guests of personal friends who invited them, rather than of the Martin company and some said they had tried without success to pay part or all of their expenses.

Most of them said they had no direct contract relationships with the Martin company and did not consider the entertainment an effort to gain favors. Company officials had emphasized the same point earlier.

Scout Training, TV Cowboy Scene Help Save Child

Los Angeles —(AP)— Boy Scout training and a television cowboy scene saved a 4-year-old girl's life Thursday night.

Mrs. Louis Saggiani of San Pedro put her daughter Elisandra to bed, then went to another room.

The youngster ran screaming into the living room, her clothes on fire. She had tried to light a Christmas candle.

Louis, 13, tripped her, rolled her on the rug and beat out the flames with his hands.

At the same time, John, 11, and Mario, 8, ran and soaked some towels, then beat out the flames in Elisandra's bedroom.

Louis learned from Boy Scout classes, the other two brothers from seeing a cowboy put out a fire on TV.

Lawrence Tuition Costs Raised $100

Knight Says Hike Puts 'Fairer Value' On Education

A tuition increase of $100, effective the fall of 1960, has been voted by the board of trustees of Lawrence college. This brings the total package cost of a year at Lawrence to $1,900 for a dormitory resident, and $1,175 for students living at home.

President Douglas M. Knight explained in a letter mailed this week to parents of present students:

"As you know, all of us in America's colleges and universities have had to increase our charges in the last few years. Rising costs of operation have accounted for part of the pressure behind these increases, but many of us have also felt an urgent need to put a fairer value on a college education than has been assigned to it in the past.

Used For Salaries

"The income from this tuition increase will be used almost exclusively for supporting the educational program. Much of it, of course, will go to the continued strengthening of faculty salaries.

"Meanwhile, we shall increase our own efforts to provide support for the college apart from tuition charges. Income from endowment this year should be over a quarter of a million dollars; and annual gifts will bring us, we hope, well over $200,000. Taken together, these two kinds of help will provide each Lawrence student with a 'hidden scholarship' of more than $500 per year."

Three Probationary Firemen were sworn in Tuesday by City Clerk Broehm, left. They are, from left, Kenneth R. Bahr, Jr., 20, of 724 1/2 E. Hancock street; Kenneth E. Boman, 25, of 1221 E. Pacific street, and Eugene A. Krueger, 21, of 731 E. Murray avenue. The fire department now has 60 men, two short of authorized strength for this year and five short of the designated strength for next year.

Council Roundup Ald. Stoegbauer Wants Billboard Removed Near Railroad Tracks

Ald. Stoegbauer has suggested that the city take steps to have a billboard removed from the railroad right-of-way near the Division of a million dollars; and annual gifts will bring us, we hope, well over $200,000. It is within 60 feet of the intersection of Lawrence street and blocks the view of the Chicago and

Stoegbauer

North Western main line and two side tracks, Stoegbauer said.

Ald. Schneider, chairman of the council's public safety committee, said he believes nothing can be done because the billboard is on private property.

Ald. Captain said he had the same problem in his ward some time ago and had no trouble getting the billboard ordered off.

Ald. Mrs. Stillings asked what had happened to her resolution asking for a comprehensive billboard ordinance.

Ald. Hannemann, chairman of the welfare and ordinance committee, said her resolution is still in the file.

City Home

City officials were invited to attend at open house at the city home, 1824 W. Spencer street, from 6 to 7:15 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 16. A smorgasbord will be served, Relief Director Flagstad said.

Bus Stop Questioned

Ald. Mueller wanted to know whether something is being done about buses stopping in front of the Hotel Appleton "right up the corner of Washington street."

Ald. Schneider, public safety committee chairman, said the matter had been called to the attention of the police department several times.

Bond Sale

The council ordered publication of the city's intent to sell $260,000 in general obligation bonds to defray four-fifths of the expected cost of deferred payments on special improvement assessments. This would be the first time in recent years the city has sold four-fifths of the expected cost in anticipation of receipts due in February. The move was suggested by Ald. Mrs. Stillings.

Police Department

The council voted unanimously to up the authorized strength of the police department by 10 men. It brings authorized strength to 66.

Fire Department

The council voted unanimously to hike the authorized strength of the fire department by three men. It brings authorized strength to 63.

Investment

Investment of $500,000 in United States Treasury bills by City Treasurer Feuerstein was approved. The investment will return $11,840 in interest upon maturing in May.

Edison School

The council approved unanimously a resolution authorizing the mayor and city clerk to sign a contract naming Raymond N. LeVee as the new Edison school architect.

Release Bridgetenders

Director of Public Works Duszynski was authorized to terminate the employment of four bridgetenders when the College avenue high level bridge is opened to traffic. They presently work on the low level old John street span, which will be dismantled. Effective date of termination is Jan. 1.

Marvin Moritz Elected Head Of Odd Fellows

Marvin Moritz has been elected noble grand of Kone-mis lodge No. 47 of the International Organization of Odd Fellows.

Other officers include John Dresden, vice grand; Robert C. Boettcher, recording secretary; William H. Hanson, financial secretary; Wesley Wagner, treasurer, and Maynard Fields, trustee for three years.

Speaker at the session was Sheldon Tusler.

Assault Charge Dropped by Court

A charge of assault and battery against Edmund Mullins, 31, operator of Eddie Mullins' Town Club, 1513 N. Richmond street, was dismissed after Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede reviewed evidence presented at a June 25 trial. The court ruled insufficient evidence existed for conviction.

Mullins was arrested after a fight with a customer in front of a tavern he formerly operated at 206 N. Appleton street on Nov. 23, 1958.

Soft Words and Hard Dollars

Today's People's Forum contains letters from Howard J. Koop, financial adviser to Gov. Nelson, and Mrs. Shirley Cherkasky, chairman of the Outagamie County Democratic party, objecting to our treatment of the governor's withholding tax proposal.

The debate that is swirling around the withholding tax proposal reminds us of the old saw about the 10 men sitting around a table who were worth an average of $1 million apiece — one was worth $10 million and the other nine were broke.

Mr. Koop's arguments, however, are a little strained. In his comparison of the withholding proposal and the alternate proposal, for example, in order to make his point he compares "total taxes paid on 1960 and 1961 income" but glosses over the fact that the $94.50 due under the withholding proposal will have to be coughed up by the taxpayer in one year, while the $139.02 under the alternate proposal would be paid over two years.

Mr. Koop strains his argumentative powers even farther in his comparison of the governor's plan with the grocery purchaser who changes from a charge to a cash basis.

Both he and Mrs. Cherkasky compare the taxpayer with the customer who charges his groceries in January, then decides to go on a cash basis in February. The comparison is fallacious in that the grocer cited would receive only a one month's windfall (or overlap, as the Democratic orators are now calling it) while the governor is asking that the taxpayers provide the state government with a full year's windfall (or overlap). As any businessman knows, time is money; a dollar in the hand is worth considerably more than a dollar due a year hence. We are quite sure that a grocer — or any businessman — would be happy to offer a 25 per cent discount, or more, if all his customers were suddenly willing to pay him a year in advance.

These apologists for the governor's proposal are right in only one respect; that the taxpayer eventually will get his extra year's taxes back — when he dies. If the withholding plan is instituted a taxpayer who dies, for example, on Jan. 1, 1965, will not owe the government for his 1964 taxes, whereas under the present program his estate would be liable for those taxes.

All this playing around with words and figures is good fun, but it does not really help us very much to logically analyze the finance and tax problems that face the state of Wisconsin. The simple facts are that the state government and the municipalities need considerably more revenue to meet the needs and desires of our modern urban society; that the income and property tax rates have been pushed so high that even a Democratic administration fears to push them higher; and that the withholding tax proposal is simply a device to provide the state with an extra year's income (less 25 per cent) so that the ultimate decision on how we are going to finance our governmental programs can be postponed another year.

We do not blame Gov. Nelson for wanting to postpone this decision — his Republican predecessors procrastinated just as badly — but we think the time has come to face up to our problems. Let the Democrats be perfectly candid and admit that their only alternative to a sales tax is higher income and/or property taxes; let the Republicans be just as candid and admit that their only alternative to higher income and/or property taxes is a sales tax. The games we have been playing with words and figures have been fun, but they have gone on long enough.

Cranberries and Milk

All Wisconsin dairy plants have been warned against using milk or selling dairy products containing any traces of antibiotics or insecticides.

Some time ago the Federal Food and Drug administration announced it would seize any interstate milk shipments containing antibiotic residues. Any residue of antibiotics or insecticides would bring about legal action against the shipper including seizure of the shipment. However, the mere seizure of one or two shipments is not what the dairymen fear most.

Howard Carpenter, Ellsworth, president, and Oscar Christenson, Madison, legal counsel for the Wisconsin Creameries association, have issued a warning to the dairymen and they have been joined by spokesmen for the University of Wisconsin dairy division. The warnings are that state regulations on withholding milk that may have been contaminated and the instructions of veterinarians must be followed meticulously.

A 'New' City Has Difficulties

Unlike older cities to the east, Los Angeles grew to its stupendous size during the era of the automobile. But it now is desperately seeking some way to cut down its traffic jams.

A year long survey of origin and destination proved what every driver has suspected, that the main lines of travel were its elaborate automobile freeways. The survey cost $325,000. Two transit companies were so inadequate for the thousands of commuters and shoppers that they were taken over by the transit authority under state charter a year and a half ago.

Now a Swedish industrialist has startled the city fathers by offering to construct a $600 million monorail system and give it to the city for nothing. The transit authority would have to provide the operating franchise and the rights of way for five radial lines. It would also retain supervision of operation, according to the offer.

The system sounds too good to be true. Six hundred miles of monorail 14 feet in the air would service the 5,000 square mile area. Aluminum trains would carry 800 passengers at a time at 80 miles an hour into the city and back home again. The estimate of a bond issue just to begin such a system was larger than any transit issue in the nation.

Whatever Los Angeles' solution, it is increasingly clear that the obsolescence of downtown sections will increase no matter how new the city if the commuter must rely only upon his car. Los Angeles abounds in downtown parking areas but, as the borders expand, so do the number of cars.

Two Letters Object to Our View on Nelson's Tax Proposal

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In an editorial in the Nov. 19 issue you questioned the facts about withholding. It is my responsibility to furnish the governor fiscal facts. I previously had a similar responsibility both in industry and business, and the methodology employed there and in government is the same. If I had explained the workings of withholding to my private employers as you do, I suspect they would tell me to try again. Let me try again with you.

The governor proposes to resolve the immediate fiscal shortage of $29 million by instituting withholding in January, 1961.

Family of Four

Table with 3 columns: Taxes Paid on 1960 Income, Taxes Paid on 1961 Income, Total Taxes Paid on 1960 and 1961 Income. Rows for Withholding Proposal and Alternate Proposal.

A simple illustration should prove the point. Assume that you charge your groceries in January and are billed in February. In February you decide to start paying cash. During February you pay the January bill, and the grocer has a so-called "windfall" — he receives cash every time you buy groceries instead of waiting for your check the following month.

Howard J. Koop
Financial Advisor to the Governor
Madison

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Your recent editorial on the withholding method of taxation is misleading. There has been no "double talk and double taxation" in the sense that people pay more money while the governor claims a tax reduction. True, they pay last year's tax bill while paying the current one, but they end uary, 1961. This means that taxes on 1961 income will be paid during 1961 instead of in April, 1962.

The only businesslike way to compare the governor's withholding collection proposal and an alternative which will balance the budget is to compare tax burden by income year. The following table does this.

nor's staff said a family of five with a $5,000 annual income and typical deductions now would pay $50.31 in state income taxes in April, 1960. In April, 1961 they would pay $40.25 and through the year another $3.25 per month, or $40.20 would be withheld. Whoops, Governor, that makes a tax bill payable in 1961 of $80.45, an increase of about 60 per cent.

What you don't make clear is that in April 1960 and April 1961, the $50.31 and $40.25 are each for the previous year, and wind up the old method of taxation, while the withheld $40.20 is for the current year, under the change to pay-as-you-go. From here on, under this method, we'd continue to pay for the current year. The switch in method of collection requires that we pay for two years in one, but the Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Dec. 4, 1880.

A joint stock company has just been formed in this city and charter applied for under the name of the Appleton Boot and Shoe Manufacturing Company.

To start with, the capital has been fixed at $20,000. The incorporators are Messrs. H. J. Rogers, J. P. Buck, O. P. Conklin, A. L. Smith, B. T. Rogers, H. D. Smith and G. D. Steele. The organization will be completed and work commenced as soon as the charter is received.

The location for the factory already has been agreed to on Mill street. Fourth ward, west of the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railway station. The water power will be created by pipes from the canal below the first lock. The first building will be built of brick and stone 30 by 100 feet, three stories high. Probably 75 hands will be employed at the outset.

O. P. Conklin is entitled to great credit for working up this desirable addition to our business industries.

Under the Capitol Dome
Testimonial Dinner
New Political Gimmick

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Politicians continue to evolve new techniques in their eternal search for the tools of power.

A gimmick that is rapidly catching on in Wisconsin, although perhaps borrowed from other jurisdictions in the country, and that is worth a reflective look by those interested in public affairs is the testimonial dinner for the candidate or the incipient candidate.

There will be a rash of such affairs during the next few months, according to all the signs, and some of them already have been held to signify an earlier than usual start of the preparations for the next struggle for control in Wisconsin.

To the candidate there are a number of attractive advantages in this device.

First, it enables him to make an early start on his campaign without the necessity of declaring his intentions. It is perfectly apparent to everybody, as an example, that the testimonial gathering for Gov. Nelson in Milwaukee the other night kicked off his reelection campaign. But there won't be a formal announcement for quite some time. An "announcement" transforms a governor into just another candidate, and tends to reduce his speaking engagements, his publicity, and his general acceptability.

OTHER GAINS

But there are more subtle gains to be had through this subterfuge.

The eternal problem of the candidates is to raise enough money to make the kind of a noise that politics requires in this era of multiple diversions and cruel competition for the voter's ear and mind.

It is a good deal easier to sell a dinner ticket for $5 or $10—or $50, in Gov. Nelson's case—than it is to solicit such contributions directly without a consideration.

It is also possible to put on the color of non-partisanship, or at least, bi-partisanship, in such affairs. It is likely that there are persons who are flattered to be asked to go to a dinner for the governor and to sit with the mighty contemporary rulers of the commonwealth, and who would not respond with equal enthusiasm to a request next June or July to throw some money into the Democratic campaign kitty.

It may be, also, that there are some persons who wouldn't like to be recorded as turning down such an invitation to participate in a civic event, long before the new campaign begins.

EVASIONS?

The skeptical observer may also wonder whether the political testimonial dinner may not contain the means for an easy evasion of the literal requirements of the state corrupt practices laws, including the prohibition against political contributions by corporations.

(The current legislature has repealed the prohibition upon labor organizations.)

Business executives in every town in Wisconsin are solicited for scores of purposes, and frequently contribute to causes they would not aid if they were entirely free to follow their own wishes. It is the most natural thing in the world for a corporation executive to buy a couple of tickets for a testimonial to a ranking public man, or an influential local politician. Only the credulous will assume that such outlays always come out of his own pocket, rather than the company till, whether Democrats or Republicans are involved.

All of this is not to suggest that this device is necessarily or even probably bad. Indeed, a good case can be made for it, in certain circumstances. Thus a fortnight ago an impressive number of Rep. Melvin R. Laird's constituents turned out for a testimonial in his honor that was carefully managed under non-partisan direction, and at a $2.50 price that obviously could barely cover the out-of-pocket cost. This incident and others of its kind must be accepted as genuine manifestations of respect and affection toward public men of quality and character — in an era when they are sorely needed.

Spunky H. S. Truman Parries Wittily With State Newsmen

Says Democrats Will Lick GOP in 1960; Has No Favorite Candidate

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Milwaukee — A spunky little man who will be 76 years old soon spent a happy half hour here Thursday night snappily offering views of a former president of the United States.

Harry Truman, showing all of the combativeness that made him one of the most colorful politicians in American history, sparred with reporters at a press conference and was obviously delighted when told he had drawn more newsmen than anybody who has come to Milwaukee in a long time.

Flippant, quick and as fiercely partisan as always, the man who seven years ago surrendered the most powerful office in the world allowed, among other things:

Confident For 1960
He doesn't care whom the Republicans nominate for president "because we'll lick him anyway."

President Eisenhower's foreign tour can do a lot of good "and it can't do any harm."

He is leaning toward nobody for the Democratic presidential nomination, but will take a hand in the nomination of the next candidate of his party if he is asked, and he expects to be asked.

There are six distinguished Democratic candidates for the nomination, any one of whom can win. Later he changed that to seven, when he had named Gov. Brown of California and discovered he had overlooked Gov. Williams of Michigan. He left it to reporters to deduce the other five are Sens. Johnson, Humphrey, Kennedy and Symington and Adlai Stevenson, not necessarily in any kind of order.

Peace Issue Out

The Republicans won't be able to campaign again on the theme of peace and prosperity.

"We'll beat them at anything they set up, because I'll give the people the record," he said.

Truman has aged visibly since Wisconsin politicians last saw him. He appears to have gained some weight also. But he seems in good health and is proud of it. He invited reporters to get up at 7 a. m. today to walk with him for a couple of miles.

"If you can keep up you're welcome," he challenged.

He was met by some old political friends, including Judge F. Ryan Duffy of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago who was a colleague in the United States senate in the 1930s when Duffy, then a resident of Fond du Lac, held the seat now held by Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley.

Testy Comment

Several times Truman refused to say whether he would have accepted a suggested invitation to accompany President Eisenhower on his world tour. From the way in which he snapped "I wasn't asked," several times, he left the impression he would have welcomed an invitation and would have accepted.

But he chuckled when he was asked whether he felt snubbed or "left out of things" now that he is a private citizen with memories of his experience in the White House.

"Why look at this," he replied, as he gestured at the crowded news conference room.

Foreign Policy

"But everybody thinks because I was president I ought to know about everything," he complained mildly when he was asked about details of current U. S. foreign policy.

Foreign policy is the business of the president, he said firmly, but he said he is trying to keep well informed and now devotes most of his time to trying to interest and inform young people in governmental affairs.

Today Truman was skipping about town, speaking at a college convocation, among other things. Later today he will leave for New York for other public appearances.

Planners Elect Vice Chairman

Don Colburn Gets Office; Contract OK'd by 7 Members

Don W. Colburn, 781 Reed street, Neenah, was elected vice chairman of the regional planning commission Thursday night.

Colburn is the first vice chairman of the commission. The by-laws recently were amended to create the office. He was chairman from May, 1956, to June, 1957.

Chairman Charles Wood, Kimberly, told the commission all member communities except the cities of Menasha and Kaukauna and Little Chute have approved the regional planning contract providing funds from each for a 3-year study of the area.

Kenneth L. Schellie and associates will devise a regional development plan for the area from north of Kaukauna to south of Neenah.

Wood told the group Schellie next week will move into the office selected for him and approved by the commission executive committee Nov. 19. The office is at 1307 N. Summit street.

Wood announced $19,772.42 of commission money has been invested in short term treasury bonds.

Barbara Bender, Miami Alumna, Edison Teacher

Miss Barbara Bender, 915 N. Appleton street, another of Appleton's new teachers, teaches Primary III at Edison school. She graduated from Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, in June.

Miss Bender did her practice teaching in Hamilton, Miss Bender Ohio. Her favorite spectator sport is football, but she enjoys swimming.

She also would like to travel in Europe.

Post Office Hours

The Appleton post office will be open from 7:50 a. m. to 5:15 p. m. Saturday for the convenience of people who wish to mail Christmas items.

Interstate Road Opened to Illinois

Heaviest Traffic Carrier in State Dedicated by Gov. Nelson, Others

Nelson Gets Lost; Late for Rites

Kenosha — There was a bit of confusion Thursday before the new stretch of Interstate Highway 94 near here was dedicated.

Gov. William Stratton of Illinois didn't get to the ribbon cutting at all, and Gov. Gaylor Nelson was tardy because his party became lost on the way from Milwaukee and wound up 12 miles across the state line.

Aides said the party discovered it was lost when it stopped a truck driver and Nelson said, "I'm your governor and I'm looking for the state line."

"You don't look like Mr. Stratton," the driver said. "And the state line is 12 miles back that way."

Some 200 persons from both states waited until Nelson arrived to cut the symbolic ribbon.

Stratton was at a meeting in Philadelphia. His press secretary said the governor was not scheduled to attend the ceremony.

stretch of new Interstate Highway 94, reaching from the Milwaukee county line to the Illinois border.

The broad divided roadway is probably the most important segment in terms of traffic generation that has yet been built on the Interstate highway system within Wisconsin.

For the hundreds of thousands of motorists, truckers and other users who will traverse it enroute to Chicago, it will save thousands of hours of travel time. A general estimate is that the new route will cut travel time between Milwaukee and Chicago about 15 minutes each way.

Unique Project
Gov. Gaylor Nelson headed a corps of Wisconsin, Illinois and federal officials who took part in dedication ceremonies in a brisk wind late Thursday that represented the completion of work on a project costing about a million dollars a mile.

Highway Commission Chairman Harold Plummer explained that the project is unique because the immense construction job was undertaken while traffic flow was maintained on old Highway 41, which will be mostly replaced by the new double-laned and divided roadway.

Plummer also said some of the construction contractors made less than normal profits, or may actually have turned in financial losses, because of the weather difficulties under which they worked during the summer and fall.

Plummer, who will retire from his office at the end of the year, probably made the last appearance of its kind.

He was praised by Harvey Graesse of Sturgeon Bay, a new commission member, and by Gov. Nelson as the man who had more influence upon the rapid work on the Wisconsin segments of the interstate highway system than any other.

The state now has about 100 famous struggles with the 80th congress when he was in the White House.

But Nelson will be reelected as he was reelected in 1948, said the man who co-founded the pollsters state and local when he won an elective term eleven years ago.

From the Democratic point of view, Mr. Truman offered a capsule analysis of the Democratic state regime's difficulties in Madison today.

He said: "Our great governor has the same troubles to face in this state as almost every other governor. Look at Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, or nearly every other state. People elect a man for governor and then tie his hands," he said with an obvious reference to the fact that Nelson's first term program is at the mercy of a Republican senate.

Most of the governors of the country are faced with a tax problem, said the former president with a reference to the financial crisis which is the heart of Nelson's difficulties at Madison.

Gov. Nelson responded graciously and explained that his own career started in 1948 when Truman won.

Bold Humor

With the bold humor which is Nelson's long suit on the stump, the governor remarked that he had been elected as a senator on Truman's coat-tails.

Then he added that he got more votes in Dane county than did the presidential candidate.

The first annual governor's party was one of the most impressive campaign meetings the Democratic organization has ever held.

Principally responsible was a Milwaukee textile manufacturer, William Feldstein, who was dinner chairman and led the campaign for the sale of tickets.

In the hall was a significant sprinkling of persons who are not normally seen at Democratic campaign rallies.

Christ Seraphim, toastmaster, keynoted the meeting.

"This is the road to reelection," he announced.

In his prepared speech the former president declared "we need a president who has a sense of our role in the world today and who is not afraid to act to meet changing conditions.

Genuine Liberal

"We need a vigorous, fighting, genuine liberal, not a hot-house liberal, who talks the game but doesn't play it."

The former president charged that "the objective of President Eisenhower's administration has been to put labor in its place."

"Do you know what that place is?" he asked. "It is complete domination by the financial interests of the country — a return to peonage."

Truman also contended that the Republican administration is preparing "to give away the atomic energy power for which the taxpayers spent $25 billion. He also charged that the administration turned control of finances of government over to bankers.

Ex-Con From Menasha Held For Holdup

Admits Staging $133 Robbery of Loan Office at LaCrosse

La Crosse —A 23-year-old ex-convict from Menasha told police Thursday he staged the $133 holdup of a downtown loan company office after he backed out of a contemplated bank robbery across the street.

Jerome F. Smith was arrested at the YMCA two hours after he admittedly held up the Citizens Loan and Finance company office.

He faced arraignment in county court today on a charge of armed robbery.

Mrs. Herbert French said Smith asked her for a loan application from and moved to a table to fill it out. She said that he returned to her cashier's window with his hand in a coat pocket, telling her, "This is a .45. Give me the till or you'll be pushing daisies."

She said she gave him a small cash drawer containing money belonging to the Rock Finance company of Green Bay, which is being liquidated.

After the robbery, Smith said in his signed statement, he went to his room, changed clothes and took a basketball workout in the gym. He was arrested by two detectives making a routine check of hotels. They said that in his room they found a $40 money order made out to the Green Bay firm and discovered Smith's tornup loan application in his wastebasket. Most of the loot was recovered.

Smith said he intended to hold up the Batavian National bank but changed his mind because he saw too many customers in the establishment.

Previous Record

He asked to see representatives of the FBI to make a further statement.

Police said Smith had served terms in the Waukesha school for boys, the Green Bay reformatory and Waupun prison.

(Smith was sentenced to a 1-to 3-year term in the state reformatory at Green Bay Oct. 17, 1957, for forcing a cab driver to drive him from Appleton to Winnebago county. Smith denied using a gun and none was found in his possession. He took $37 from the driver. He forced the cab driver out of the cab on a Winnebago county trunk and was captured several hours later. Smith also was charged with cashing worthless checks the same day.)

(On June 18, 1955, when he was 18, Smith was sentenced to an 18-month term in the reformatory for car theft. He drove off when a driver had given him a ride stepped out of the car in Waupaca county.)

(His parents are divorced and live in Neenah and Menasha.)

Independent Votes Count, Briton Says

England's Election Depended on Them, Envoy Maintains

The floating vote determined the outcome of the recent British elections, Alan F. R. Harvey, director of British information services at the British consulate general in Chicago, told the Lawrence college International club Thursday night.

Both the Labor and Conservative parties retained about the same number of seats and have a solid voting block of 12 million votes, he said. But the 100 seats controlled by the independent voters are the ones that count, he added.

Election issues in Britain are mainly domestic, he declared. The Conservative party argues Britons "have never had it so good," with creeping inflation all but stopped and the gold and dollar reserves increasing substantially.

Foreign Policy
The primary aim of all British foreign policy, he noted, is to achieve peace. Great Britain wants peace because it is a dependent, trading nation, and trade is best achieved under peaceful conditions.

Harvey maintained two kinds of disarmament are needed to help achieve this peace — both nuclear and conventional arms. He noted Russia's superiority in con-

Though One Reader Objects, Many Of Charlie's Fans Enjoy Epitaphs

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Here we go again, on epitaphs — one sassy letter notwithstanding. The writer of that one suggested in plain words that this reporter is (1) morbid (2) naughty, and (3) goofy.

"Why would anybody read that stuff?" he writes and I confess that I do not know why, but I approve. Nor do I know why the customers have been so energetic in sending other examples of quaint epitaphs for use here. But I approve of that, too. Ergo, once more on epitaphs:

At the St. Giles cemetery in England there is a tombstone which bears an unkind epitaph to:

John Brindell
After an evil life of 64 years
Died June 18, 1822

And in Manchester, England, there also is a derogatory epitaph which commemorated a man thus:

Here lies John Hill
A man of skill
Whose age was five times ten
He never did good
And never would
If he lived as long again.

In Oxford, an executed man may be remembered—and in poetry—thus:
Here lies Parker Hall, and what is more rarish
He was born, bred, and hanged in St. Thomas's parish.

Though that epitaph is fine indeed, which is what we naturally assume proper for epitaphs, there are many dead-and-gone folks whose tombstones are slanderous — like that of Sir Nathaniel Waxwall, which goes:
Misplacing, mistaking,
Misquoting, misdating Men, morals, things and facts all,
Here lies Sir Nathan Waxwall.

Robert Burns wrote many epitaphs, some of which are simply not printable and most of which were slanderous. For Andrew Turner, he wrote:
In Seventeen hunder' and forty-nine
Satan took stuff to mak' a swine
And caust it in a corner;
But willy ch a n g e d his plan
And shaped it like a man
And ca'd it Andrew Turner.

A Clintonville reader sent the following epitaph which may be a real one, but he neglected to identify its place. It concerns a British fellow who outlived each of his four wives. The bodies were transferred to another cemetery and the identities of the wives were confused. The stonemason recorded it thus:
Stranger, pause, and shed
a tear
For Susan Sparks lies buried here
Mingled in some perplex-

Burlesque on Opera Best Bit On Caesar Show

Sid's 2nd Special
Funnier, Centered
On Marriage Theme

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

New York — (R) — Sid Caesar, who hung his first show of the season on an automobile theme, devoted his attention to the institution of marriage Wednesday night. This second special was a more disciplined and funnier show.

Caesar usually has fine comic ideas. Too often he goes great guns with one for the first five minutes but he rarely knows when to quit. For the most part he avoided this trap in "Marriage—Handle With Care."

The first sketch, in which he was aided by Audrey Meadows, was a satire on modern housewifery and push-button living and was pretty effective.

Best sketch on the show, was the finale—a wild and wonderful burlesque of Italian opera with a plot based very loosely on Faust. Everybody sang and talked in fractured Italian.

Jose Ferrer and Marge and Gower Champion helped out here and there throughout the show.

At least two shows are scheduled to disappear from the NBC lineup at the end of their first 13 weeks—"Five Fingers" and "Love and Marriage"—and a major reshuffling of programs will take place.

"Riverboat" is to move from its Sunday night berth to Monday, 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. It will be replaced by a western starring William Bendix.

"Richard Diamond" will go from Monday to Saturday night opposite CBS' popular "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "The Deputy" will move up Saturday night in a time switch with "The Man and the Challenge."

Meanwhile, at CBS, the axing of the hour-long "Lineup" now on Wednesday night will leave a programming spot which the network is planning to fill with another 60-minute show, probably musical-variety, but definitely not another cops-and-robbers.

The most recent Nielsen rating, incidentally, put three westerns in the top popularity spots—"Wagon Train," "Gunsmoke" and "Have Gun, Will Travel." One special—Jack Benny's—made the top 10, but none of this season's new regular series got there.

French Pianist to Give Concert at St. Norbert Hall

French pianist Philippe Entremont will give a concert Monday night in the Fine Arts auditorium at St. Norbert college, West De Pere. The concert will begin at 8:15 p. m.

Entremont's program will consist of works by Bach, Mozart, Debussy, Prokofiev and Chopin.

The young pianist has performed with many nationally-known orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia orchestra, and the Pittsburgh, Dallas, Atlanta, and Chicago Symphony orchestras.

Entremont began his professional career in 1951 at the age of 17. Since then, he has conducted six national tours in the United States. He will tour Australia early next year.

His concert is the second in a series of three presentations by the St. Norbert Fine Arts committee. The third will come in April, when the Camera Concerti, a 14-piece chamber music group, will perform.

Les Brown, Jr., Son of the bandleader, and Margaret Thomas, daughter of comedian Danny Thomas, relax between scenes of a filmed comedy series in which they appear. The two 20-year-olds are making their acting debut in "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis."

Critics Praise German Movie Against War

'The Bridge' Relates Story of 7 Schoolboys in Hitler's Army

BY REINHOLD ENSZ

Berlin — (R) — A brutal German film about war is drawing sellout audiences in West Berlin and West Germany.

Most critics agree that the picture, which makes war look like insane nonsense, is one of the greatest ever made in Germany.

Called "Die Brucke" (The Bridge), it was turned out on a shoestring by Bernhard Wicki, a Swiss actor-turned-director who works mainly in West Germany. The film tells what happened to seven German schoolboys — and 16 — who were drafted into Hitler's army just before the hectic end of World War II.

The film shows how all of them, save one, died in defense of a small south German bridge that was worthless from a tactical viewpoint.

Audience Silent
But this isn't what stuns the audience into silence, a silence that lasts till the crowd melts away on the street.

What hits the viewer is the manner in which the child-soldiers, and their American attackers, die.

They do not die like heroes in a wild west thriller, who spin around and drop dead without a fuss. Instead, the German kids and the American soldiers die, screaming and blubbering, with terrible wounds.

Most West German critics hailed the film as a welcome break with what seems to have become a trend in West Germany. Many recent German films theoretically condemn war, but are actually an excuse to relive the glories of the time when the Germans goose-stepped over all of Europe.

No Glory, No Heroes
In this film there is no glory and there are no heroes. There are just seven kids, six of whom were condemned to die by the fanatic determination that drove Hitler until his last days.

Some of the critics' opinions:
Munich's independent and influential Sueddeutsche Zeitung — "One of the bitterest anti-war films that has ever been shown on the screen."
Hamburg's Independent Die Welt — "One of the best films that has been made in Germany during the past 25 years."

West Berlin's independent BZ — "This is the first German film in which the last war, Hitler's war, appears as a star in a front of a camera that has no filters on its lens."

munist threat came in these passages:

"For years doubts about us have been skillfully nurtured in foreign lands by those who oppose America's ideals. . . . Our mutual undertakings support those who strive to forestall aggression, subversion and penetration . . . in a world sorely troubled by an atheistic imperialism, (foreign aid) is a strong instrument of hope and encouragement . . . continuous probings of predatory forces."

No Selfish Aims

Eisenhower said "I hope to make this truth clear—that, on all this earth, not anywhere does our nation seek territory, selfish gain or unfair advantage for itself. I hope all can understand that beyond her shores, as at home, America aspires only to promote human happiness, justly achieved."

True international cooperation, Eisenhower said, can eliminate hunger, privation and disease. "Even more than this," he added, "we can help reduce the world tensions and troubles that are the material of explosions and disaster."

In praising the mutual aid program, the president said "of the amounts we dedicate to our own security and to peace, none yield a more beneficial return than the dollars we devote to these mutual efforts of the free world."

Eisenhower said the steel dispute "cries out for immediate solution." He said the nation cannot tolerate for long the crippling of the entire economy as the result of labor-management disputes in any one industry or any group of industries.

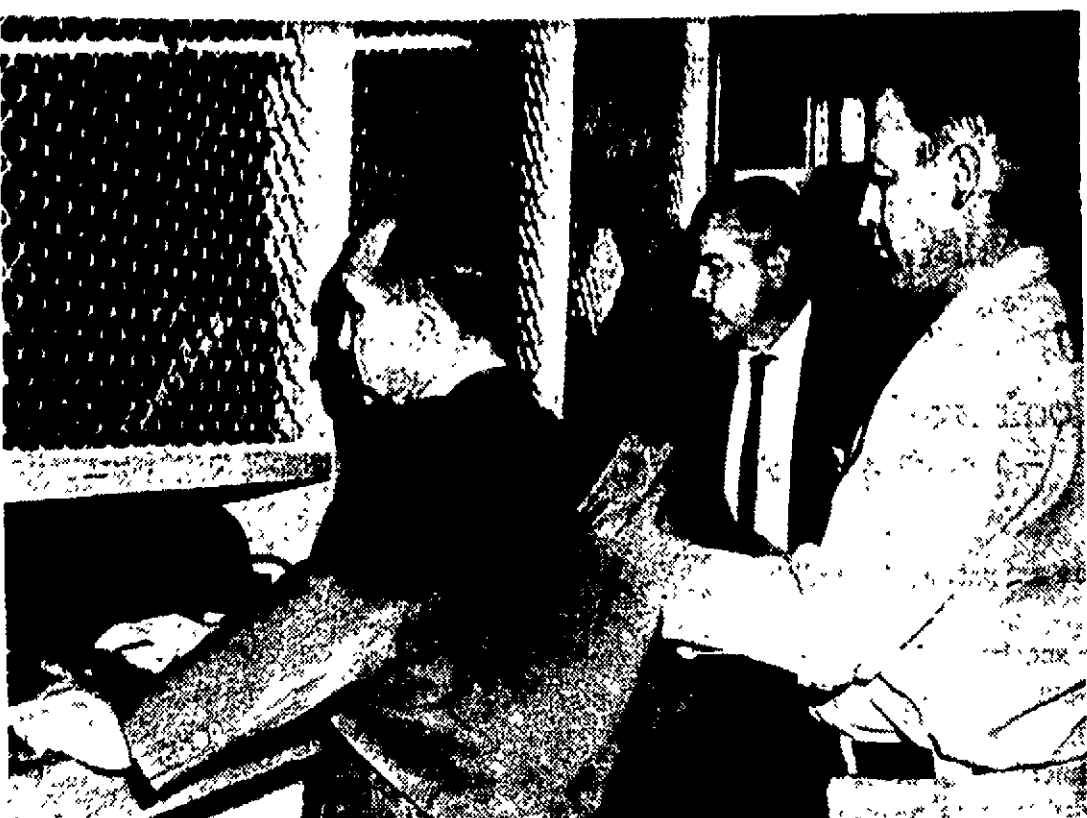

Freedom Essential

He said he was instructing the director of the federal mediation service to do all that he can to keep both sides negotiating on an around-the-clock basis.

As "one last thought," Eisenhower said:

"We have heard much of the phrase, 'peace and friendship.' This phrase, in expressing the aspiration of America, is not complete. We should say instead, 'Peace and friendship, in freedom.' This, I think, is America's real message to the world."

Forty minutes after he finished his address, the president moved quickly across a soggy beige and red carpet to a covered veranda of the Ciampino airport for formal welcoming ceremonies.

at you with profound sympathy and will follow with very warm hopes the delicate and generous mission that you have undertaken, following the impulse of your spirit."

The big jet airliner that flew the president across the Atlantic overnight from Washington circled the airport for 26 minutes before it came in for a landing.

The president stood bareheaded in a downpour for a few minutes while the Italian air force band played a few strains of the American and Italian national anthems. The temperature was a chill 48 degrees.

Then with his-escorting party he moved quickly across a soggy beige and red carpet to a covered veranda of the Ciampino airport for formal welcoming ceremonies.

The landing was made on instruments with ground controllers giving instructions, for double security.

An airport source said the pilot, Col. William Draper, had radioed ahead that the electronic landing equipment of the giant 707 jet that brought the president across the Atlantic was not working properly. But Draper later denied this.

He said there had been a "momentary difficulty" with the radar at the Ciampino control tower, but this quickly cleared up. He said the plane could have made an instrument landing with its own electronics gear even without ground control.

The president told his greeters his message for each of the 11 countries he will visit is a simple one — "peace and friendship — in freedom."

Ties Between Nations

He added that he hoped this message would be heard "in every country where communications are allowed freely."

He expressed pleasure at visiting Italy because of "ties of blood which unite our two countries." Millions of Americans come from Italian ancestry, he noted, "so our friendship is not merely official, but comes from the people, from relatives clasping hands across the sea."

He looked forward, he said, to talks with Italian President Giovanni Gronchi, Premier

Draper

Antonio Segni and other leaders here.

In turn Gronchi hailed the American president's "great political sagacity" and humanity.

Rome's Mayor Urbano Ciocchetti, in another welcoming speech, said the Italian capital "looks at you with profound sympathy and will follow with very warm hopes the delicate and generous mission that you have undertaken, following the impulse of your spirit."

The jetliner circled the airport 26 minutes waiting for clouds to clear before coming in for a smooth landing but throwing up a cloud of spray, while officials and a crowd of spectators watched anxiously.

The spectators applauded heartily as the president arrived and at the conclusion of the translation of his remarks.

Outside the airport, another crowd cheered in the rain as the two presidents drove off for the trip into Rome over the 2,000-year-old Appian way.

Warm Applause

Despite the rain, small crowds of Italians under umbrellas lined Rome streets to watch the president go by on his way to the 400-year-old Quirinal palace, his residence for his 2-day stay in Rome.

The weather kept the numbers of the crowd down, but those who did turn out cheered lustily.

Some signs bobbed up along the way. Said one: "The people hope for an end to the cold war," and another: "Summit immediately." These had the ring of communist slogans, but the communists here profess to be happy about the Eisenhower visit.

In the courtyard of Quirinal palace, the ceremonies were cut short due to the rain. President Gronchi and President Eisenhower hustled inside and up the broad marble staircase to the Eisenhower apartment.

Eisenhower's first steps in his 7-room apartment were in the "Salon of the Seasons," given its name from its chairs carved to represent each month.

Mass Funeral For 100 Dead In French Flood

Wednesday night, sending a raging wall of water through the low country to the Mediterranean.

Work teams carrying food and fresh water moved into isolated areas to aid survivors. Usual water facilities were polluted by the flood, and an outbreak of disease was feared.

Long lines of people gathered around tank-trucks bringing in water.

Army bulldozers were called in to clear the silt-clogged roads of the valley.

Expressions of sympathy poured in from around the world.

The U. S. 6th fleet flew in penicillin and water purification chemicals. Capt. R. B. Kelly of Norfolk, Va., went ashore at Frejus to offer the valley "anything that we can possibly do."

The fleet flew in 1,000 loaves of bread yesterday and more was coming in by helicopter.

The mass funeral burial site is Frejus cemetery, in a high part of the town that escaped the flood.

Scores of other bodies draped in sheets were placed in rows along corridors of the Frejus hospital and in makeshift morgues at St. Raphael and Puget-sur-Argens. Hosts of stricken relatives of the missing paced slowly back and forth, scanning the uncovered faces.

The difficulty of estimating the toll was underscored by Georges Galichon, chief aide

Segni something tangible with which to answer the charges of Italian communists that the United States takes this country's support for granted, as it would a poor relation's.

Many Italians feel their country deserves a bigger voice in the inner councils of the western alliance. The communists, who are the nation's second biggest political party, have played on this feeling in arguing that Italy should be neutral in the east-west struggle.

Entire families drowned. It was feared many residents were buried in the thick brown silt left by the flood. Galichon said the silt was like quicksand, and rescue workers were unable to search there.

It also was feared that many of the missing had been swept into the sea.

Weary rescue workers, their clothing soaked and muddy, halted their search about midnight.

"There's no one left out there alive," said one. "Everything is deathly quiet."

$890,000 Raised

Red Cross officials, military personnel and residents of nearby communities distributed food, limited supplies of drinking water and clothing among the survivors. The homeless were housed in schools or taken into private homes that escaped the flood.

Radio-TV appeals for assistance had brought in $890,000 by midnight, including a $2,025 contribution from Prince Rainier III of Monaco. The Reyran valley is only a few miles west of Rainier's little principality on the Riviera.

Officials still could find no explanation for the break in the 185-foot-high steel and concrete dam that unleashed nearly 10 billion gallons—or 49 million cubic meters—of water on the sleeping valley below. The dam's designated holding capacity was 52 million cubic meters.

At the time it was completed, in 1933, the dam's 22-foot thickness was the thinnest in the world, but since then similar thin dams, and one even thinner in France, have been built.

Handicap Fails to Curb 'Hunting Fever'

Harri sville, W. Va. — Fred Cox got a case of "hunting fever" when he heard friends talking about the upcoming West Virginia deer season.

So last Monday his friends took him along on the first day of the season. The first deer Cox spotted was too far away for a clean shot. But he killed the second, a 124-pounder, when it came within 150 yards of his spot in the field.

Cox, a watch repairman, is confined to a wheel chair because of paralyzed legs. His wife also is confined to a wheel chair. Both attended a school for the handicapped near Fishersville, Va.

In Good Taste Mother Is Stickler for Convention

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening my parents had several friends in for bridge. I greeted them when they arrived and shortly afterwards excused myself, left the room and went to another part of the house to read. At 10:30 I went to bed. The next morning mother reprimanded me for not going into the living room to say good-night to her guests, and said that she was ashamed of my behavior. Mother is a stickler for etiquette and sometimes carries it to an extreme, so I would like to hear from you whether I was rude in not saying good-night to these guests.
Answer: You were not really rude because your mother's guests probably thought you did not come in to say good-night so as not to disturb their game. Your mother though, is right, and unless you said good-night when you left the room, you should have come back to say it before going to bed.
Dear Mrs. Post: As is customary in this company, I'm being given a dinner when I retire, which will be soon. I'd like to know what is correct when the guests rise to drink a toast to me. Should I rise too or remain seated?
Answer: You remain seated until the others have all drunk the toast, and then you rise, bow, smile, say "Thank you," and then sit down again.

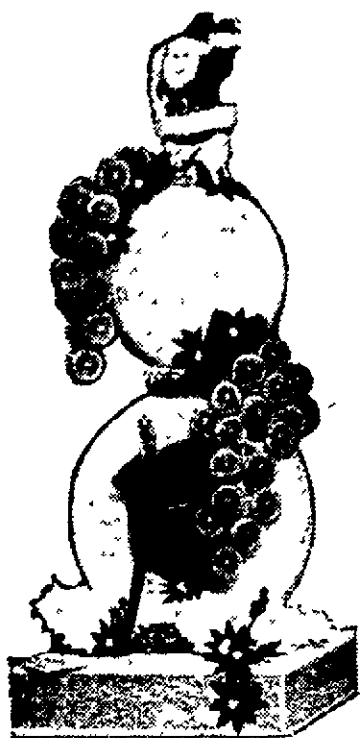

Blue and White Were used in this Madonna design. Blue grapes, edged with white spray and flocked branches surround the statue which is set into a white ceramic bowl.

Woman Writer Tells How She Ruined Daughter's Social Life

BY ANNE LANDERS
DEAR ANN: I had to take a stiff drink to get up the courage to write this letter, but my mind is clear and I hope you will print it. I ruined my daughter's life because I was stubborn and ignorant. Maybe another can learn something from my horrible mistake.

When Mary Elizabeth was 16 I caught her and her boy friend in the act of heavy necking. They had just returned from a beach party and were wearing swimming suits. It was disgraceful.

I threw him out of the house and kept Mary Elizabeth up all night threatening and scolding. I made her quit the high school band because the boy was in it. I wouldn't let her go out with him or anyone else.

Her school work fell down and she lost interest in everything. All the kids knew she couldn't accept invitations so after a while she was left out of everything.

Mary Elizabeth quit high school in her senior year, only weeks before her graduation. She got a job as a grocery clerk. All her ambition and interest in life disappeared. Now she's 34—a nervous, sour old maid. She's a confirmed man-hater—and won't fix herself up or even buy clothes.

The family doctor told me I ruined this girl's life. He said I should never have cut her off from young people—that getting caught was punishment enough. He said I should have given her a chance immediately to prove she could be trusted.

Take my advice, Mothers—

Miss Maurita M. McDermott, 616 N. Meade street, Appleton, became the bride of Leo Biesterveld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Biesterveld, 902 Park avenue, Little Chute, at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Most Precious Blood Catholic church, New London. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McDermott, New London.

Midas Touch

On the gold standard—that is the word picture of evening fashions for the holiday season.

Gold brocades and metallics are used with a lavish hand in gala dresses, costumes and coats. Dancing slippers are made of gold kid—sometimes of 14 Kt. gold kid. Golden stones encrust handbags, and golden threads decorate gloves.

Even stockings have been caught up in the gold rush. Thanks to a new development in nylon yarn, there is a fabulous stocking that looks for all the world like spun gold. It actually sparkles on the leg. And for a truly Midas-minded belle, sparkling nylons are styled in exotic, luminescent lace.

HE read your article in SHE I have missed a year.

Happy Choice

“... Please analyze the handwriting of the young lady who wrote the enclosed letter and also my own. Do you think we would get along well together?”

Courageous ability to overcome despondency is evident in the way the baseline of your writing sinks in the center then starts upward at the end of each line. You may be at present recovering from an unhappy experience.

The young lady could be influencing you towards a cheerful outlook on life. She'd certainly be a help. The baseline of her writing slants optimistically upward. Moreover, many of her words begin with a curved, beginning stroke, revealing a gay sense of humor and a happy-hearted nature.

Her words dwindle in height so that the first letter is frequently much higher than the last letter (“missed”), an indication of diplomacy. She has an affectionate nature and a pleasant disposition.

Our Children
Study, Practice Makes Best Driver

BY ANGELO PATRI
Some of our secondary schools are offering their students a course in driving cars. I think this is a wise thing to do.
The insurance companies have raised the cost of insuring the younger drivers because they have been in so many accidents. Some of these companies have reduced this sort of insurance when the young driver has evidence that he has taken such a course successfully. Insurance companies are not given to such gestures without sound reason. The reason is evident.
The boy or girl who has been carefully taught about the mechanism of a car, is not likely to use it carelessly. They know what happens to the engine, or the brakes, or the tires when they are misused and so take proper care when using the car.
When they are taught the rules of the road, and the reason for them, they are likely to obey them habitually and so become safe drivers. Safe drivers for the coming generation of travelers would be a wonderful help to the nation now beset by the death tolls of the highways.
Denounced as Frill
There are people, some of them in places of influence and even authority, who frown on the driving course and denounce it as a frill. "Their fathers and mothers can teach them, can't they?" That is possible but experienced examiners for drivers' licenses have told me that it is not always good practice for parents to teach their sons and daughters to drive. Parents are likely to have formed a few habits that should not be passed along. Too, they are likely to be blind to variations of technique that a professional teacher would see and correct promptly.

Parents are too often emotionally involved to be good teachers of their children. The teacher, having nothing of this attitude, can do a better job.
Need Evident
There can be no question about the necessity for our young people to learn to drive properly, with safety for themselves and others, with consideration for all other drivers on the road. Certainly, as one thinks of his experience on the roads one knows that drivers, many of them, today, need instruction to enable them to drive with safety to themselves and others.
The speeder, the zig-zag driver, the one who disregards all signs, the one who shows off how well he can drive with one hand, the one who won't dim his lights for anybody, the one who sticks to the back of the car in front as though glued there, the one in a hurry, passes and then had to wedge between two cars that are proceeding as they should menace us all. A driver's course in high school is right and necessary.

Luncheon omelets take to fillings: mushroom and onion, tomato sauce, grated cheddar cheese or creamed fish or vegetables.

Instrument Rate
Not Required in New FAA Rulings

The federal aviation agency said today its new requirements for private and commercial pilot certificates do not mean pilots in these categories will need to secure instrument ratings.
FAA officials emphasized that the training required by the new rule conveys no instrument flying privileges. To engage in instrument operations, a pilot must hold an instrument rating and the airplane must be equipped for IFR operations as prescribed by civil air regulations.
The FAA also emphasized the new rules are not retroactive and will affect only those private and commercial pilots who secure their certificates on or after March 16, 1960.
Under amendments to the civil air regulations, applicants for commercial pilot certificates will be required to have a minimum of 10 hours of instrument flight instruction. They must also demonstrate their ability to manually control their aircraft solely by the use of instruments.
Applicants for private pilot certificates will be required to have dual instruction in the basic control of the aircraft by the use of instruments. The new rule does not specify the number of hours of instruction, but it does require that the applicant demonstrate to an FAA inspector or designated flight examiner his emergency manual capability in altitude control simulating the loss of visual reference during flight.
In addition, both categories of applicants must be familiar with and demonstrate the use of radio for communications and navigation in cross-country flying.

Royal Brownie—Princess Anne, 9-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, poses in her Brownie uniform on the grounds of Buckingham palace where her Brownie pack meets.

Princess Anne Learns Knot-Tying, Knitting in Palace Brownie Troop

BY ALVIN STEINKOPF
London —(AP)— If anyone at Buckingham palace needs a reef knot tied in a hurry there's an expert close at hand — 9-year-old Princess Anne.
And the curly haired daughter of the queen also is getting pretty good at knitting.
Knotting and knitting are accomplishments the lively princess owes to the enthusiasm she throws into her tasks as a member of the Brownies.
Brownies are girls serving a sort of apprenticeship to qualify as Girl Guides, British counterpart of the American Girl Scouts.
Princess Anne became a Brownie last May. Now Tuesdays are special days at the palace. If anything threatens to conflict with the Brownie sessions the marshal of the court just has to change his program. The princess is engaged after 5 p.m.
A special pack of Brownies was organized at Buckingham palace, at the direction of Queen Elizabeth, so the princess could get going in the Girl Guide program.
There were 23 under-teen girls in the pack at last count, not all of them bluebloods. One of the ideas of the Brownies is that girls should make friends in all stations of life.
If the princess were just any girl she would belong to the pack of the Holy Trinity church, near the palace. But a princess making regular appearances in public attracts too much attention. So

County Judge Named to Post

Stanley A. Staidl, Outagamie county judge, has been named secretary-treasurer of the Wisconsin Board of County Judges, which met Thursday in Milwaukee. Other officers are Grover M. Stapleton, Sturgeon Bay, president, and Lowell D. Schoengarth, Neillsville, vice president.
Herbert Terwilliger, Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin State Bar association, told the judges at their annual convention that incomes of attorneys would have to be increased to attract top young talent to the legal profession.

The princess said she couldn't knit, so that project was started a little early. Later comes darning, cycling, swimming, cooking, sewing on buttons and setting table for dinner, not just simple tea.
As individuals Brownies develop slightly differing characteristics and interests. So, to fit herself into the most comfortable groove, a Brownie may choose to be classified an elf, an imp, a pixie or a fairy. Princess Anne has chosen to be a pixie.
The princess is chic in the Brownie uniform. It consists of a brown dress, hat, belt and shoes, white ankle socks, and a triangular necktie which is tricky to get straight.
There will be more difficult assignments soon — how to bandage a skinned knee, what to do when someone's clothes catch fire, and how to set a compass.
Even a princess needs to know which way is north.

To Your Good Health

Opinions Differ on Relation
Of Cholesterol to Arteries

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: How is 'cholesterol level' determined by a doctor? Is it difficult or simple? There must be many, like me, who would like to be informed about cholesterol in the interests of health. — E. D.D."

Other let Dr. Molner ters on the same subject boil down to the same thing. People think they ought to do something about cholesterol, yet the best doctors aren't sure what ought to be done about it. Quite a difference of opinion has developed lately.
The test itself involves drawing a blood sample which is sent to a laboratory for a moderately-complicated test (subject to considerable variation, by the way) after which the report goes back to the doctor. It is then his job to figure out how the lab test applies to this particular patient. It isn't easy.
There seems to be some relation between cholesterol and hardening of the arteries. Since cholesterol is necessary to the body, the question isn't whether we should have cholesterol in the blood but rather what makes it deposit itself on the walls of the arteries. Recently research people have been suspecting that another fatty material, triglyceride, may be more significant in hardening of the arteries.
If you had no cholesterol at all in your diet, the body would manufacture it from other foods you eat. On the other hand, diet does seem to have some effect on how much cholesterol is in the blood. What we don't know is why and how it is deposited.

Significant Facts
The significant known facts about cholesterol are:
The body manufactures it from fat sources.
Nervous tension seems to have some effect on the cholesterol level in the blood.
Extremely rigid diet low in fat tends to lower the level.
Certain drugs also do so.
Males have higher levels, in general, than females.
Vegetable and fish oils (so called unsaturated fatty acids) tend to lower the level; the saturated fatty acids from meat fat, butter, cream, egg yolk and shortenings, tend to raise it.
Practical Advice
Yet even controlled diets have not always been successful in lowering the cholesterol level over long periods. And I feel pretty sure that we can't hang the problem of hardening of the arteries on this one single peg. We've got to find out more.
From the practical standpoint, my feeling is that it may help, and certainly won't hurt, to try to go easy on the saturated fats and substitute the unsaturated ones. A good rule of thumb is that the saturated ones are fats which are solid at room temperature; the unsaturated, such as vegetable fats, are liquid.

But if that is worth doing, then do at least one other thing to protect your arteries: Keep your emotions on an even keel!
As I said, I don't know the "why." Nobody does. But we know these two factors, excessively high cholesterol, and excessive nervous tension, seem to be important factors. So let's do the best we can.

West opened the eight of hearts, and South forgot his nursery rhymes. He decided to finesse.
East won with the king of hearts and wondered why his partner had led the eight. It couldn't be a fourth-best lead since it was impossible for West to have three cards higher than the eight of hearts. Obviously, West's lead was "top of nothing."
East saw no value in continuing a worthless suit, so he looked around for a better shot. Since dummy's spades and clubs looked forbidding, East shifted to the jack of diamonds.
Therefore take the first trick with the ace of hearts and lead spades to force out the ace. If the opponents continue hearts, you can get 10 tricks; if they switch to diamonds, you are still sure of nine.

Answer: Bid two spades or pass. You have four points in spades and one point for the doubleton. A pass is the "book" action. However, the raise is more enterprising and makes the bidding tougher for the opponents. A raise with four trumps seldom gets you into trouble and is therefore recommended to bold players.

Xavier Scores 4th Straight Cage Victory

Mike Flanagan Nets 14 Points Against St. Gregory Team

The Xavier Catholic High school cagers finally found how it feels to be behind Thursday night, and they didn't like it.

Trailing, 18-17, at the end of the first quarter, the Hawks poured it on in each succeeding period and rolled to a 62-35 victory over St. Gregory at St. Nazianz. It was the fourth straight victory for the freshman-sophomore Hawks over a 4-year school.

Flanagan Sets Pace Mike Flanagan entered the game late in the first period and scored five baskets within the next few minutes to help shoot the Hawks ahead. Xavier led comfortably, 37-24, at the half.

Forward Flanagan finished with 14 points for Xavier honors. Guard Mike Gertz played an outstanding game, pulling down 19 rebounds unofficially and contributing 11 points. "Chuck" Lueck also tallied 11.

Hammen Scores 23 as Chuters Square Record

BY JIM HARP Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Little Chute — Led by Ed Hammen's 23 points, St. John High school rolled to a 65-50 victory over Fox Valley Lutheran of Appleton here Thursday night.

It was the second straight win of the season for the Chuters who evened their record at 2-2. The Foxes have a 1-5 record.

Hammen was consistent throughout the game getting five field goals in both the first and second half. He added

Hammen Bartmann ed his only three charity tosses for the 23-point total. Most of his baskets came on driving jumps around the bucket.

Use Fast Break St. John used the fast break effectively in moving to an early lead. At one point in the first period the margin was 15-5 but the Foxes came back to make it 17-11 at the end of the quarter.

Hammen and Harley Hietpas set the pace in the early minutes of the game. Hietpas was a defensive standout throughout the game as he controlled the rebounds and broke up passes.

In the second period, St. John bagged 16 points, while the Foxes slipped to nine. This opened up a 33-20 lead at the intermission for the Dutchmen. Hietpas and Hammen had 12 of the 16 points in the quarter.

Leave Little Doubt The Chuters left little doubt to the outcome by swishing 19 points in the third period while Fox Valley was limited to eight. This made it 52-28 and Coach Bill Fitzpatrick of St. John used mostly reserves in the last quarter.

The Foxes took advantage of the situation and poured in 22 markers in the last frame to cut into the St. John lead. The Chuters added 13 in the final stanza.

Hietpas followed Hammen in scoring for St. John with 13 points. Tom Verhagen and Mike Bongers each collected 10.

Roger Bartmann was high for the Foxes with nine field goals and a pair of free throws for 20 points. Bob Luecke added 14.

49ers Have Chance To End Decade of Frustration Saturday

Play Favored Colts in Western Division Showdown; 5 Games Slated for Sunday

BY HARRY JUPITER

San Francisco —A— San Francisco's 49ers, often the runners-up but never the champs, get a chance to end a decade of frustration Saturday when they meet the Baltimore Colts, the National Football league's defending champions.

The NFL's lone Saturday game will be televised to a national audience. The five other league games are on tap for Sunday.

The 49ers, in the NFL for their tenth season, are tied with the Colts for the Western division lead. Each team has a 7-3 record. The winner clinches at least a share of the division crown.

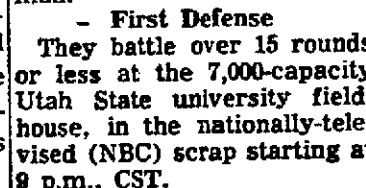

Giants vs. Browns The big game in the Eastern division Sunday pits the Cleveland Browns, with only a mathematical chance left, against the division leading Giants at New York. The Giants are 8-2 and the Browns 6-4, with but two games left to play.

Gene Makes 1st Defense Since Stopping Basilio

BY JACK STEVENSON Logan, Utah —A— Rugged Gene Fullmer, the Mormon Sunday School teacher who holds the NBA world middleweight title, doesn't predict

Fullmer Webb he'll knock out challenger "Spider" Webb tonight, but he says he'll beat him.

Webb, the Chicagoan who attended Idaho State college 90 miles north of here, replied, "The better man will win. I think I'm the better man."

First Defense They battle over 15 rounds or less at the 7,000-capacity Utah State university fieldhouse, in the nationally-televised (NBC) scrap starting at 9 p.m., CST.

It's the first defense for the West Jordan, Utah, fighter since he stoppel Carmen Basilio in the fourteenth round last Aug. 28 at San Francisco, to win the National Boxing association's version of the title. Fullmer is favored, 7-5 or 8-5, to win this one.

Webb says he isn't going out with the idea of knocking out the champion, but added, "if there is an opening naturally I'll try to take him out."

Fullmer says, "If he keeps going away I'll have to go after him. But I've got the championship and he's got to take it away."

The two were to weigh in this morning with neither having any worries about making the 160-pound limit.

Layne Doubts if AFL Will Get Off Ground

BY ART DALEY Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Here are a couple of good bets: (1) The American Football league won't operate in '60 and (2) The National Football league will add two clubs — Dallas and Minneapolis.

Those aren't certainties. Nothing's sure but death and taxes. Before the All-American conference was born in '46, prospective owners studied and planned for two to three years. Coaches were wooed and signed two years in advance.

No Experience The current American league is an overnight thing by comparison. No long-term planning and no experienced pro football leadership. A head coach hasn't been signed yet—and training is barely six months away. One club (Los Angeles) signed a head coach whose been out of football for nearly five years... and a few days later he resigned.

The new league is busy, however, contacting players and coaches in the NFL—just sounding the boys out, you know. Bobby Layne, Steeler quarterback who is a native Texan, said on a visit in Detroit the other day: "I don't think the AFL will get off the ground. We'll take a couple of new teams in our league this year, and I don't think they'll try to go with the rest. I know Bud Adams and Lamar Hunt (league organizers) and their daddies have got a lot of money, but they don't know anything about running a football team and are just beginning to realize the problems. Bud just saw a financial statement for one of the NFL clubs last week and it worked him up a little."

The teams Layne is referring to are Minneapolis and

Kojis Hits 31 Points In Opener

New York —A— Don Kojis, Marquette center, playing with a taped ankle, scored 31 points Thursday night but it wasn't quite enough, and the Warriors dropped a 70-69 decision to New York university in a basketball game at Madison Square garden.

In the second game of the doubleheader that inaugurated the garden's twenty-sixth basketball season St. Louis university beat St. John, 76-67.

Hook Shot Kojis scored 13 of the last 20 points made by the Warriors before Al Filardi dropped in a hook shot with 46 seconds to play to give New York the victory.

The lead changed hands several times in the final minutes and a rebound by Kojis put the Warriors ahead, 69-68, with 57 seconds remaining.

Filardi then scored his game winning shot and Marquette brought the ball down court, only to lose possession because of a palming violation.

NYU attempted to stall out the remaining seconds but Russ Cunningham was fouled. Cunningham missed the shot, and Marquette grabbed the rebound but didn't have enough time to get into the scoring zone.

Rangers Sever Winless Streak

By The Associated Press Things are looking up for Coach Alf Pike and his New York Rangers in the National Hockey league. The Rangers Thursday night presented him with his first victory since he took over the club in mid-November.

The Rangers whipped the league leading Canadiens, 7-4, on Montreal ice to snap a winless streak at seven games.

The Canadiens went down to their second straight defeat, having had their 18-game unbeaten skein come to an end Wednesday night at the hands of the Toronto Maple Leafs, 1-0.

Marquette's Walt Mangham makes a one-handed recovery of a rebound during the second half of Thursday night's season-opening basketball game against New York university in Madison Square garden. Other identifiable players are MU's Jim Kersten, 33 (former Menasha St. Mary star); and NYU's Al Filardi, 44; and Al Barden, 22. The Violets won, 70-69.

The game will be the second for both teams. The Badgers dropped their opener to Butler, while Iowa State defeated South Dakota.

New Coaches Both teams are coached by new men, John Erickson for Wisconsin and Glendon Anderson for Iowa.

Second-year men who will start for Wisconsin include Jack Ulwelling of Appleton and Marty Gharritty of Shawano, at the guard positions, and Tom Hughbanks, Green Bay, at forward. Against Butler the trio scored a total of 50 points. The other Badger starters will be Bob Barneson of Eau Claire and center Fred Clow of Rockford.

AP Picks Lanphear On All-America '11'

Cannon Is Lone Repeater; 2 Syracuse Players Named

New York — Billy Cannon, Louisiana State's explosive halfback, is a repeater and unbeaten Syracuse is the only team with two representatives on The Associated Press 1959 All-America football team.

The team, representing every section of the country, is announced today after sifting of the recommendations of 12 regional boards of newsmen.

Lanphear Cannon

Cannon heads a backfield unit which includes his Sugar bowl opponent, Charley Flowers of Mississippi; versatile Jim Mottly of Arkansas and Bob Schloredt, the one-eyed quarterback who guided Washington into the Rose bowl.

Pair of Linemen
Syracuse, the nation's No. 1 team, provided a pair of the huskies for the 14 ton line—Fred Mautino, 191-pound, pass-snagging end, and Roger Davis, 228-pound guard whose alert line-backing featured the Orangemen's rugged defense.

Opposite Mautino at end is Marlin McKeever, one of the ferocious twins from Southern California, and the other guard is Bill Burrell of Illinois. The tackles are Don Floyd of Texas Christian and Dan Lanphear of Wisconsin. The center is Georgia Tech's Maxie Baughan.

Cannon has been the chief offensive weapon of an LSU team which has lost only one game in two years. He gained 598 yards rushing and returned punts, kickoffs and intercepted passes for an additional 527 yards. He averaged 40.3 yards on his punts.

Schloredt, who lost sight of his left eye in a childhood accident, is another all-around performer. Acclaimed the best pass defender in the Far West, he also passed for 733 yards and five touchdowns, ran for 225 yards and scored 54 points.

Speed and deception are the trademarks of Flowers, whose shifty, stutter style of running enabled him to rack 773 yards on the ground.

Mottly carried the ball 93 times for 519 yards, returned kicks for 171 and scored five times.

SECOND TEAM
ENDS—Carroll Dale, Virginia Tech; Monte Sticks, Notre Dame. TACKLES—Ken Rice, Auburn; Mike Magg, Missouri. GUARDS—Maurice Duke, Texas; Jerry Stalup, Wisconsin. CENTER—E. J. Holub, Texas Tech. BACKS—Richele Lucas, Penn State; Fran Curel, Miami; Ron Burton, Northwestern; Jack Spikes, Texas Christian.

They'll Do It Every Time

Time Out with Mike Drew

The naming of former Marquette university Coach William Chandler, Sr., to the Helms college basketball hall of fame last week gladdened the hearts of a number of Fox Cities residents.

Three of them are immediate relatives: Chandler's widow and one of his two sons (Bill, Jr.) live in Appleton and his lone daughter, Mrs. William Herziger, resides in Menasha. Herziger is a Menasha High teacher who works in the Menasha recreation program in the summertime.

Bill, Jr., a former MU basketball great under his father, is an Appleton physician.

Two Fox Cities parochial coaches, Gene Clark of Appleton Xavier and Ralph McClone of Menasha St. Mary played for Bill Sr., at Marquette.

Outstanding Man
Both Clark and McClone call Bill Sr., one of the outstanding men they've ever known.

"He was one of the best Christian gentlemen I've ever had anything to do with and a fellow without an enemy in the world," remembers McClone. "I don't think he ever got really mad at any of his players."

"He was a prince of a man," asserts Clark, "a man who really felt bad when he had to cut his squad for road trips. He got me a full-time job in Milwaukee while I was going to school which enabled me to get married when I did."

Clark's brother "Dutch," who was killed several years ago, earned a letter as a member of the 1944-5 Hilltop per quintet.

Different Theories
The coaching philosophies of both Clark and McClone — both hard-driving types — are quite different from those of Chandler.

Bill, Sr., was a great at the University of Wisconsin, making the all Western conference team on two straight league championships. After coaching at River Falls State and Iowa State he went to Marquette where he produced several outstanding teams and such all-time MU greats as: Geno Berce, Dave Quibus, Ed Mullen, Bob Deneen, Frank McCabe and his own son.

One of the highlights of the senior Chandler's career was the 1934-5 season when his club defeated DePaul and George Mikan and was ranked seventeenth in the nation at the season's end.

Led Coaches
The MU coach was president of the U.S. cage coaches' association in 1937-8 and on the group's rules committee for about 10 years. He retired after the 1950-51 season — Clark's last — and died in 1953.

Bill, Jr., may have been the

Sentinels Nip Bobcats, 5-4, For 1st Win

Marquette — Marquette's revived Sentinels blasted out a 4-1 lead in the first half of the action, then held on doggedly to take a 5-4 decision from the Green Bay Bobcats at the Palestra Thursday night.

The win was the first of the season for the Sentinels, and it featured the first hat trick of the year — by "Bucky" O'Neill, who was playing his first game of the year.

The Sentinels tired visibly after two periods.

The Bobcats thoroughly dominated the final period, yet made two of their last three goals while the Sentinels were shorthanded, as Jim Demarinis, was tenacious in the Marquette nets. Jim made 35 stops — 15 in the wide-open second period.

Mary Palmer Hits 534 Aggregate in National League

Pond's (28-10) holds a 2-game league lead.

Other honor scores: Harriet Fulton, 190, 533; Ruth Rosera, 197, 502.

There were no honor scores in the Elks Women's American or Valley Iron Works leagues. Schreifers (30-6) tops the former circuit by four games. The Shorts (25-14) lead the latter by two.

Lance Olson Scores 33 In MSU's 96-67 Win

By The Associated Press
The Big Ten marked up a 3-1 record over outside foes Thursday night to boost its count to 7-2 in the young basketball campaign.

Ohio State, Illinois and Michigan were winners, while Minnesota lost to Southern Methodist.

The Buckeyes' sophomore ace, 6-8 Jerry Lucas, rammed in 34 points in a 94-55 victory over Memphis State.

Lucas scored 10 field goals from close in and hit 14 out of 14 free throws.

Pennington Hits 37
Illinois opened its season with an 87-75 decision over Butler. Butler's Ken Pennington netted 37 points, and his 19 free throws set a Huff gym record, topping the previous mark of 16 by Indiana's Wally Choice in 1956.

Illinois overcame a 36-33 halftime deficit.

Bruce Bunkenburg, a non-starter who fouled out with seven minutes to play, led the Illini with 19 points, and teammate Governor Vaughn added 18.

Defending champion Michigan State started its season by trimming Bowling Green, 96-67. Lance Olson (of Green Bay) pumped in 33 points.

The coaching debut of Minnesota's Johnny Kundla was marred as Southern Methodist defeated the Gophers, 73-60. The Mustangs' Steve Strange led the way with 23 points. Ron Johnson was high for Minnesota with 20.

Saturday's Action
Big Ten teams return to action Saturday with Ball State at Indiana, Drake at Michigan, SMU at Iowa, Kansas at Northwestern, Pitt at Ohio State, Penn State at Purdue, Iowa State at Wisconsin (afternoon) and Minnesota at Vanderbilt.

Patient Load Drop Worries UW Hospitals

Seek Ways to
Hike 72 Per Cent
Occupancy Ratio

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Many hospitals in Wisconsin are crowded and their administrators are worried about a flow of patients larger than they can conveniently accommodate.

But at one of the largest hospitals in the state, officials are worried about a steady decline in patronage, and consequent increases in the per-capita cost. It is the group of medical treatment facilities here lumped together as the University of Wisconsin hospitals.

The legislature now has before it recommendations of the state department of administration for a revision of policy and practices intended to increase the rate of occupancy — which was 72 per cent last year — and thus prevent spiraling costs.

Most important change would remove the quota system on public patients sent by counties and permit the state to share costs with localities for such indigents without statutory limit.

Another would permit University of Wisconsin students and their dependents, comprising a population of about 20,000, to be admitted to the hospital at will. Under the present rules, private patients are admitted only through referral by their own physicians.

Charges at the hospital lately have been at the rate of $25 a day. The hospital has operated at a deficit nevertheless. It is estimated a higher rate of occupancy could decrease the costs by $2 per patient day.

Besides the costs, state officials are concerned about the effect of declining patient admissions at the hospitals upon teaching practices at the University of Wisconsin medical school. The hospital provides the clinic teaching opportunities for the medical school faculty.

Court Dismisses Traffic Counts

Two traffic charges taken under advisement after trials before Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieghe have been dismissed in opinions issued by the court.

Kenneth A. Gustin, 34, route 3, Appleton, was charged with driving faster than was reasonable. He was arrested after his car went out of control and left County Trunk E July 19. His trial was held Oct. 13.

Lyle H. Schultz, 20, of 1611 N. Clark street, was charged with racing on W. College avenue April 19. His trial was held July 2, and the court asked for briefs from opposing attorneys, but none were filed.

Vocal Music Taught All Xavier Students

"Something that will develop everybody's talents," the philosophy of education at Xavier High school, means that one specific thing, music, is a part of every student's 4-year program. Explains Brother Laurentian Peter, FSC, school director: "We would like every boy whether he likes it or not, to engage in some musical activity. It will get him in on something he would not do otherwise, and he can profit very much."

Chorus Required The same, of course, goes for the girls of Xavier. Weekly, each homeroom is visited by Music Director Francis Scholtz, where group singing and basic music appreciation are taught. Every student is required to attend these chorus sessions.

By the same token, explains Brother Peter, all students are required to take physical education. "We hope to develop every youngster who has any kind of talent in any direction," he said.

Not all musical activity at Xavier is a "must," however. There are two bands for which the students receive chorus credit, and an extra-curricular mixed chorus, which Brother Peter hopes will be able to perform at Christmas time.

Operettas Anticipated He also hopes to organize school-wide boys' and girls' choruses to perform then, and anticipates eventually producing operettas yearly.

The band program also is directed by Scholtz, who has supervised a similar program

Wounded Hunter Regains Hearing

Marshfield — A Monroe man shot in the head in a hunting accident says he has regained the hearing in his right ear impaired by heavy gunnery concussion during World war II.

Robert W. Maurer, 38, was hit in the nose by a ricocheting bullet two weeks ago while hunting in Price county. The shot entered the nostril through sinus tubes and lodged under the right eye.

Surgeons first removed bone splinters from his cheek and stitched the inside of his mouth. In a second operation, the bullet was removed.

Maurer was a gunner's mate in the navy during the war. He is a former Monroe policeman and has been employed recently in a cheese warehouse. He is confined to St. Joseph's hospital.

Van Pelt Calls For Cutback in Foreign Aid

Congressman Opposes Bill Of 'Socialized Medicine' Type

Menasha — Cong. William K. Van Pelt expressed his desire for a cutback in the foreign aid program in a luncheon talk to the League of Women Voters Thursday noon at the Valley Inn and his opposition to a proposed "socialized medicine" type bill in a talk to the Winnebago County Medical society Thursday night at the Elks club.

He expressed his opposition to the proposed bill to provide free medical, hospital and dental care for surgical cases for persons on social security. The government would underwrite these costs estimated at $2 billion for the first year.

It would apply to only those receiving surgical care and not for all medical and dental expenses of the social security recipients Cong. Van Pelt outlined the bill's provisions and said he was utterly opposed to it.

Medical organizations also have expressed objection to the bill, it was brought out, feeling that this care should be worked out in the local communities and not be done by the government.

Also speaking to the county physicians was state Sen. William A. Draheim who said he did not think Gov. Nelson's withholding tax plan would pass the senate. He felt it was a political play by the governor and advised waiting for the report of the "blue ribbon" tax study committee.

There is no emergency as far as the tax situation is concerned, he said, as he declared that stopgap measures have a tendency to become permanent.

Legislative matters was the theme of the physicians' meeting which was directed by Dr. E. A. Strakosch, Oshkosh, legislative chairman.

2 Neenah Youths Fined $50, Costs On Game Counts

Oshkosh — Daniel Gerhardt, 19, of 618 Reed street, Neenah, this morning in municipal court was fined $50 and costs after he changed his plea to no contest on a charge of possessing 27 ducks. Gerhardt, who was arrested Nov. 8 by a conservation warden, pleaded innocent on Nov. 10. His attorney had filed a motion to suppress the ducks as evidence on the grounds that they had been illegally obtained without a search warrant and before Gerhardt was issued a summons.

Judge S. J. Luchsinger ruled that Gerhardt consented to the search when he admitted the warden to the basement where the ducks were found in a tank.

Donald Peterson, 17, of 717 Cedar street, Neenah, was fined $50 and costs after he entered a no contest plea to a charge of possessing an over-bag of ducks. He was arrested Oct. 28 and pleaded innocent on Nov. 10.

Mathematics Award Given MHS Senior

Menasha — John Asmus, Menasha High school senior, has been notified of his second high honor in mathematics contests.

He recently placed among the top 10 per cent in a contest sponsored by the Future Engineers of America. Six thousand students of 600 schools in 32 states competed.

Students who took the tests by the FEA were supplied with self-study kits, to be used without any assistance, to help discover students capable of independent study.

He also received a cash award for his high placing in the contest.

As a sophomore, John was named one of 11 top winners of the third high school mathematics contest sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America's Wisconsin division. In that competition 8,500 students were screened with 916 finalists from 172 high schools.

John also received a letter of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship corporation. He ranked in the top 3 per cent of juniors who last year were tested. He plans to study engineering.

Zephyrs Win 57-45 On 2nd Period Spurt

Topple Premontre for Fifth Straight Win; Register 20-8 Advantage in Quarter No. 2

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Green Bay — Riding the crest of a strong second quarter, St. Mary successfully began defense of its Fox Valley Catholic conference crown with a 57-45 conquest of Premontre here Thursday night.

The victory was the fifth straight of this season for the Zephyrs and their 14th consecutive triumph in conference play over a 3-season period. The Menashans registered a 20-8 edge in the second period, which turned out to be the final spread. The clubs played on even terms in the Laemmrich other three quarters. Premontre had an 8-7 edge at the close of the first period, St. Mary had a 13-12 advantage in the third and each came up with 17 points in the final segment.

Hit 33 Per Cent

This was a good game for the Zephyrs to get out of their systems. They definitely weren't at their sharpest in the shooting department and were given no little difficulty by the cadets' 2-1-2 zone defense. On the other hand, things evened themselves out because the Bays couldn't cope with the St. Mary press. The Menashans, who hit a blistering 60 per cent from the floor in last Friday's win over St. Benedict of Milwaukee, had to be content with a little better than 33 per cent on 21 for 66. While this is good for many teams, it is subpar for the Zephyrs.

The Cadets were even colder, making about 26 per cent of their attempts on 15 for 58. St. Mary again had a good percentage from the free throw stripe, canning 15 for 21. Premontre made 15 and missed 10.

Neenah, Menasha Vie In 65th League Fray

Rockets Hold 39-25 Advantage in Loop Series; Win 11 of 17 Tourney Meetings

Menasha — Neenah and Menasha collide for the 65th time in conference play with tonight's tussle at the Bluejay gym.

In the previous meetings, Neenah has come out victorious 39 times to the Bluejays' 25. The intercity rivals have been paired 17 times in post-season tournament play and Neenah has been the winner in 11.

Although they met many times before the conference was organized, league competition began in the 1927-28 season. The Rockets came out on top the first 12 times. Menasha won the next four and Neenah won twice in 1935 and 1936.

Double Wins

Since then, the Rockets won twice in 1938-39, 1939-40, 1941-42, 1943-44, 1948-49, 1951-52, 1954-55, and 1957-58. Menasha won both games in 1936-37, 1947-48, 1950-51, 1952-53, 1953-54, and 1955-56. All others, of course, were divided.

In 1957-58, Neenah scored a 1-sided 67-34 win in the first game and the Jays used stall tactics in the second, before finally succumbing 41-37 after two overtimes and a free throw period.

Split Series

Last season, Neenah took the first one 71-60 in an overtime and the Jays reversed the outcome with a 66-54 win the second time out. Neenah avenged that one with a 63-59 tournament win.

The highest scoring fracas in the series was Menasha's 82-78 win four years ago in the last game in the old Rocket gym. The lowest total was Neenah's 17-3 win in 1930-31 although 3-2 and 5-4 were recorded back in the pre-league days.

Fireplace Will Add to Fun Of Your Open Plan Rec Room

Modern families joining the swing to home-centered recreation are reviving a way of life popular with their forefathers — that of gathering around a roaring fireplace. Although they are no longer relied on as a primary source for home heating and cooking as in pioneer days, fireplaces are nonetheless serving an important function as a source with the added sense of mellowness they add to a room, comments Otto F. Wenzler, an architectural consultant.

The growing popularity of outdoor living has had an influence on the renaissance of fireplaces in today's open-plan glass wall homes, points out Wenzler.

"With families spending more time outdoors during the fine weather, relaxing on the patio and cooking regularly on the grill, they are justifiably reluctant to sacrifice this livability when they are compelled to move indoors during rainy spells or for the winter," he said.

"In modern homes where insulating glass walls and picture windows have made recreation and family rooms a visual part of the outdoors, however, the feeling of outdoor living has moved indoors with the season. The fireplace has now become a means of maintaining summer-time informality to a great extent all year, even to the point of barbecue cooking."

Removable grilling racks fit over the fire box for preparing sizzling steaks and hamburgs, while motorized rotisseries are available for the epicure whose talents lie in preparing roasts and whole fowl.

From the standpoint of attractiveness, the simple, clean lines of modern - style fireplaces offer a perfect way to add appeal to any room, either large or small, the consultant explained.

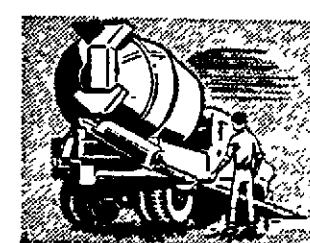

Natural Brick

The materials from which they are now commonly made include a wide range of brick, natural and pre-cast stone, offering homeowners a choice of either matching or contrasting the style and color of a room.

With fireplaces often forming a dividing wall between the living room and kitchen or recreation area in open-plan homes, the trend is to designing them with the hearth opening on both sides. This way the pleasing effects can be enjoyed from two rooms at the same time.

In a decorative sense, homeowners may capitalize on the tendency to place the hearth above the floor so everyone has a good view of the blazing logs. Wenzler suggests that a raised hearth be expanded into a built-in bench that extends the full width of the fireplace wall. This serves as a perfect place for fireplace accessories and can double as additional seating space when needed.

U. S. Gold Outflow Being Restricted

BY SYLVIA PORTER

In 1959 the era of the Marshall plan—the American foreign aid program which stands in history as the greatest generosity a single nation ever has displayed toward its friends and enemies came to an end.

In 1959, policy in government, industry and labor publicly acknowledged that, as a result of our spending far more overseas than we have been taking in from other lands, gold has been flowing out on a substantial scale, the dollar's prestige has been seriously questioned and an indefinite continuation of the trends cannot be tolerated.

In 1959, therefore, an historic turning point was reached in our trade relations with industrial Europe and Japan.

Post-War Strength

To grasp the full extent of the change, you must go back to the end of global war in 1946. At that time our country was the overwhelming power in the world trade markets. Nearly all other economies were ruined or obsolete. In our vaults we held most of the world's gold reserves.

To get other nations back on their economic feet, we began pouring billions in gifts and grants into rebuilding their plants and factories. We willingly exported our know-how and managerial skills. We encouraged private capital and tourists to go abroad and spend freely. We turned the other way as our sick competitors raised towering barriers against imports of our goods to protect their own weak industries.

Year after year the economies of our competitors have been reviving, and in 1958 the full extent of the competitive comeback burst upon us. Last year the total of the funds we sent abroad topped the total of our receipts by $3.4 billion. A full $2.3 billion, or 10 per cent of our gold reserves, moved into the vaults of other nations. This year the gap between our outgo and income has been even bigger — $4 billion. The drain on our gold has continued.

Regaining Balance

Now we are acting to regain our trade balance in the world.

(1) The U. S. has just adopted a "Buy American" requirement for certain foreign aid. Under the policy poorer nations getting U. S. funds must spend the cash in our country for our goods. While the move has aroused sharp protests that it is a step backward to restriction and protectionism, Sec. of State Herter has indicated it will be extended if the gold outflow persists.

(2) The United States has demanded and is getting from European nations and Japan a decisive liberalization of their restrictions against our goods. At the just-concluded trade parleys in Tokyo, the chairman of the U. S. delegation hailed the resurgence of our competitors' positions and their recognition that new trade policies are now in order as exciting as a success story.

(3) Every one of our overseas spending programs is being re-examined. We are suggesting in unmistakable terms that our now thriving friends take more of a share of the world's economic and military burdens.

Interest Rates

(4) We are counting on the upsurge in our interest rates to help offset the drain on our gold. The high rates foreign central banks can earn on short-term U. S. treasury IOUs is encouraging them to invest their funds in these securities instead of asking for gold.

(5) Still in its infancy is a major drive to spur our industrialists to return to hard-selling of our goods and services in the world markets and really compete with foreign producers instead of simply accepting orders. Here lies the fundamental answer to our regaining a comfortable trade balance.

The new cycle in our foreign economic policies which opened in 1959 will become more firmly established in 1960. Actually, this turning point may rank as one of the great economic - financial events of the next decade as well as one of the top stories of this year.

Use Hardboard for Inside Decorating

Inexpensive, Durable, Easy to Paint, It's a Popular Material

If you have ever used hardboard, you know it as a tough material with one smooth, brownish-colored surface and one rough (usually-not-meant-to-be-seen) surface. Inexpensive, durable and easy to paint, it has become one of the most popular workhorse wallboards in recent years.

But somehow when you think of hardboard, you do not think of it as an ultra-decorative material. Yet beautiful interiors can be created with one of the newer varieties of this product, plastic-finished hardboard. As the name makes clear, it is hardboard covered with plastic. This plastic comes in many designs, the warmest being those which simulate wood-grained finishes.

Aids Installation

The plank style plastic-finished hardboard has the edges tongued and grooved to aid in installation. It is a quarter of an inch thick and comes in planks 16 inches wide and eight feet long. Thus, three planks cover a 4 by 8 wall area.

They are applied with clips and nails provided with the panels. A special adhesive also is used when a strong installation is desired.

Although these planks, or panels, can be applied directly to studs set 16 inches apart on center, it usually is better to use horizontal furring strips over the studs. That's because it is very rare when studs are absolutely straight and in line. The furring strips, one inch by two inches, should be applied 16 inches apart, with a four-inch width of furring at the floor. As we said, a special adhesive is put on the furring strips behind each plank for extra strength.

The adhesive, by the way, can be used in conjunction with the clips when the panels are installed over a solid wall. But this should not be attempted unless the wall is reasonably straight. Any high spots can be sanded down. When a wall is uneven, then the furring - strip method is necessary.

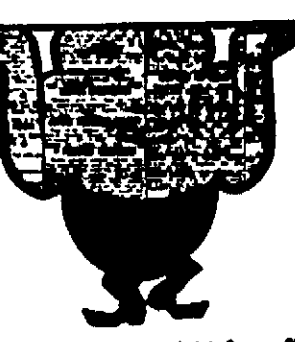

Proper Spacing

In all installations, whether over open studs or a solid wall, one-sixteenth of an inch should be allowed in all joints for expansion. A gauge of cardboard can be used for this spacing between planks.

It is not advisable to install plastic-finished wall paneling in damp areas, such as bathrooms. But they can be put up in high humidity locations if the planks are treated first. This is done by wetting the backs of the planks thoroughly with water. They should then be stacked back-to-back on a flat surface for 24 hours prior to use.

Sawdust Becomes A Useful Product

Once Unwanted Stepchild of the Forest Industry, It's Now Used For Plastic Wood, Subflooring

The one-time unwanted stepchild of the forest industry—sawdust—has now become a useful product in millions of American homes. Sawdust at one time was considered commercially valuable only as a fuel to power sawmills. More often than not, surplus sawdust has presented a disposal problem. But slowly this leftover of lumbering has been finding its way, in various disguises, into our homes.

Did you know, for instance, that the briquette, used so extensively for fuel, is nothing more than compressed sawdust? Producing plants, public buildings and power plants are utilizing sawdust in combination with other products, as a fertilizing wood wastes to provide heat. Sawdust alone, it has been found, also can be used to fuel

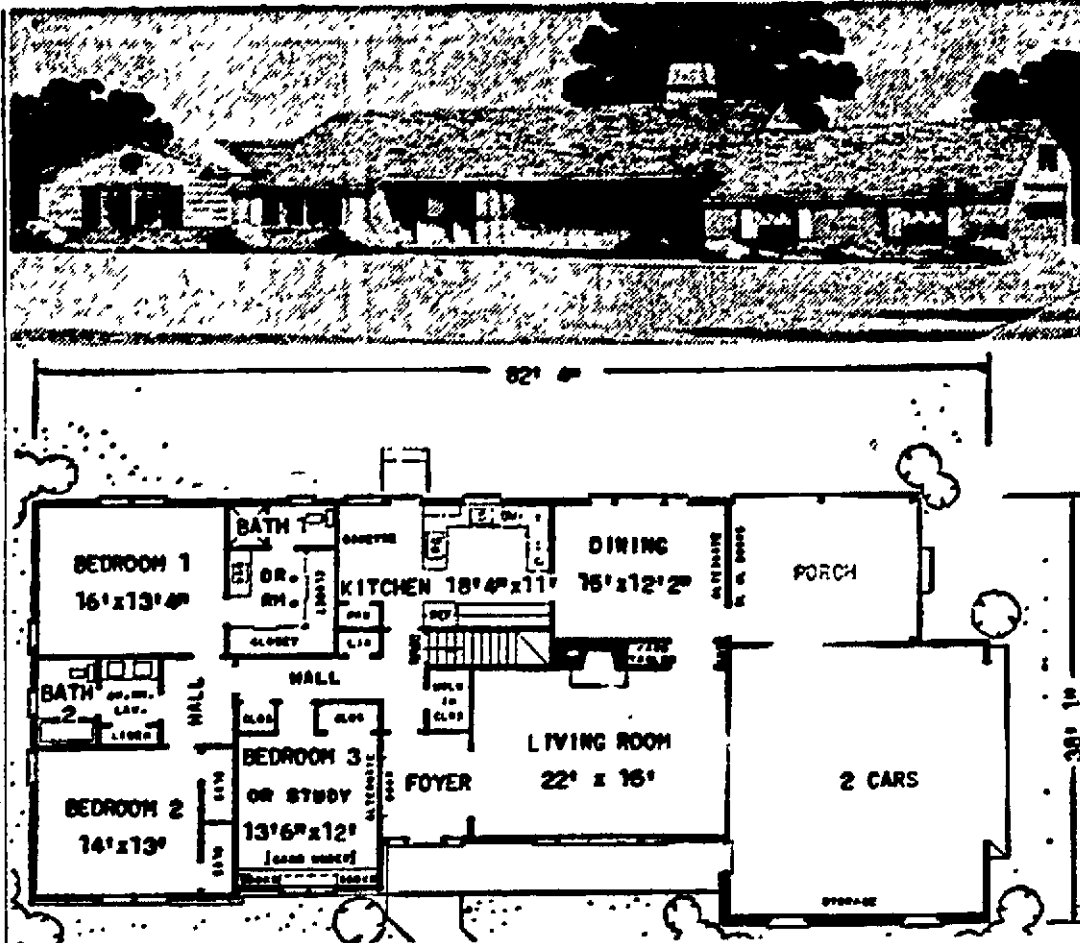

Forest industry researchers and enterprising tree farmers expect to find many more new uses for sawdust in the years ahead.

Government reports show a sharp drop in private housing starts—that is, private homes on which construction has started. While part of this decrease no doubt is the result of the interruption of steel production, it is equally evident that tight money has played a vital role in holding down new construction.

Letters to this department make it evident that many persons are not quite sure what the term tight money means and, more important, how it got that way.

Tight Money
Tight money merely means that financial institutions are making less of their money available for mortgage loans. Without these mortgages, builders cannot proceed with construction at as fast a pace as they would like and as they feel is necessary to meet the demand.

The reasons for tight money are so many, so varied and so complex that an entire book could be written about it—and many have. But to attempt a brief explanatory version, tight money in the mortgage field is caused when lending institutions make it more difficult to obtain mortgages by being more "choosy" and by charging higher interest rates. A prime factor in this situation is the fact that many persons are drawing their money out of banks to invest in commitments where they can obtain higher interest than the banks give them. The banks thus have less money available for mortgages.

Charles Chaplin, Wife Parents of 7th Child

Lausanne, Switzerland—Charles Chaplin's wife Oona gave birth Thursday to her seventh child—an 8 lb., 1 oz. girl. She is to be named Annette-Emilie.

Oona, 34-year-old daughter of the late American playwright Eugene O'Neill, was reported doing well. Chaplin arrived at the clinic five minutes before the baby was born. Beaming happily, he saw newsmen soon afterward and announced the baby's name. The 70-year-old comedian and Oona now have five girls and two boys.

preference. Some people prefer to retain the open-grained appearance of oak and so refrain from using a wood filler on it.

QUESTION: I am planning to build an economical swimming pool. It seems to me that it can be done with gravel concrete blocks. If so, what are the steps to be taken to make it sturdy and waterproof so that it will not crack during the winter?

ANSWER: We had to call on an engineer of a swimming pool corporation to help us with this one. He said that the pool certainly can be built with gravel concrete blocks, but that a wire mesh should be placed between every course of blocks. The inside surface should be plastered with two coats of waterproof plaster. Twelve-inch blocks are recommended, with a vinyl spray liner placed on top of the plaster for easier maintenance.

QUESTION: In a do-it-yourself book I am reading, there is a reference to "fish tape." Can you tell me what this is?

ANSWER: "Fish tape" is the expression sometimes used by electricians to describe what most of us called a "snake." It's the narrow strip metal, properly flexible, that is used for "fishing" wire through the spaces in the walls and floors.

QUESTION: We have a finished attic except that it has no bathroom. If we decide to have one put in, must it be directly over the downstairs bathroom? We'd like to avoid this if possible, since we want the attic bathroom to be put on the opposite side of the house.

ANSWER: It's perfectly all right to make the supports from regular pine and the rest from plywood. If made properly, there will be no warping.

QUESTION: I read recently in your column about using wood filler on hardwoods. I have an unpainted maple bureau, but a friend of mine says maple should not be filled. Isn't maple a hardwood?

ANSWER: Yes, maple is a hardwood. And your friend is right; it does not require a filler, since it is a very close wood. The notation is white pine. Is this all right? It seems to me I remember reading somewhere about not of the open-grained hard-mixing plywood with regular woods, such as oak, and that lumber in one project be-

Lawrence Says
Birth Control
Not Valid as Political Issue

Population Growth
Not Problem of American President

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—There's something incredible about the current effort of some groups to make birth control a political issue in America. If voters were to be asked to express their preference for a candidate on the basis of whether he is for or against birth control, it would cut through all blocs and parties, irrespective of religious or party affiliations. The issue would be what right the government has to tell people how to conduct their family affairs. President Eisenhower has just said:

"I cannot imagine anything more emphatically a subject that is not a proper political or governmental activity or function or responsibility."

"This thing has, for very great denominations, a religious meaning, definite religious tenet in their own doctrine. I have no quarrel with them, as a matter of fact this being largely the Catholic church, they are one of the groups that I admire and respect, but this has nothing to do with governmental contact with other governments. We do not intend to interfere with any other, the internal affairs of any other government, and if they want to do something about what is admittedly a very difficult and almost explosive question, that is their business. Any candidate who said he favored governmental action to control the number of children Americans could have would find himself losing votes right and left. The mere assertion of such a policy by any candidate would insure his defeat.

It is argued the question really relates to other countries, like India and China, where population is growing to astronomical proportions. Is it really believed any candidate for political office is going to win or lose votes on the issue of how many children the people of India should be permitted to have? To state the question is to reveal its absurdity.

Two weeks ago Sir Charles Darwin, grandson of the world-famous author of "Origin of Species" and himself an eminent scientist and specialist on population problems, made some startling statements in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News and World Report." The exchange ran as follows:

2.7 Children Per Family

"Q. How widely would birth control have to be practiced?"

"A. To be any good, it's got to be world-wide. You've got to teach at least a billion grown-up people how to use it. You've got to have over a million teachers just to show people how to use it. You can't get that going in 50 years."

"Q. Do you mean that it would take a billion people practicing birth control to stabilize the world population?"

"A. You've got to arrange it so that everybody doesn't have, on the average, more than 2.7—I think it is—children."

"Q. Are any nations facing up to the problem of overcrowding and doing anything about it?"

"A. Japan is one of the most conscious countries about it. They've succeeded in overcoming some parts of the problem by legalizing abortion, and, for the last few

What They Want

Memo to Builders; Less
'Scenery', More Closets

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Wife who is too watchful of husband is likely to wind up without a new house.

No, Confucius didn't say that. It's a bit of advice offered to builders in a trade paper.

The tip goes like this: "Use hostesses on heavy traffic days, but use matronly types rather than glamor girls. Husband keep their eyes on sexy young things; wives keep their eyes on the husbands; nobody sees the house."

This is a fascinating tidbit to file in your memory book under the heading: "Reasons why we don't own a house."

The builders may have a point. But we'll bet our last year's summer house that when a man gets to the point of parting with his savings, he's not going to worry about the come-on in the deal. And when his lady is that close to getting her own home she'll shut her eyes to the man's indiscretions—until he puts his name on the house contract. (After that, watch out.)

A Happy Time
There is no happier female in the world than a woman who is about to take on a house. She's in no mood for quibbling once she has a foot in the door. That's an accomplishment in itself.

The paper suggests among other sales techniques to charm the prospective buyer, the muted strains of radio or record player, coffee or soft drinks in the model house kitchen, a handy swing in the backyard to enchant children while parents ogle, something cooking on the stove to make the home smell good, shades drawn if the day is dark, doors open if the sun is shining.

It sounds homey, but we'll put our house money on the seller who shows more closet space than a woman can dream up (and if they're departmentalized so much the better) such important-to-women work savers as washing machine, dryer, dish washer, enough kitchen cabinets to house her collection of portable appliances, a fenced-in area for small fry, a small room for cogitating, sewing, ironing or reading, and if it's soundproof so much the better, a living room large or small that can be decorated for cozy-ness, not broken up with windows, doors, staircases all in the wrong places, a good lighting system, a pleasant terrace outdoors accessible to the kitchen.

Impress Husband

Even the man with three thumbs will be impressed with a built-in workshop and an accessible spot for garden tools.

Another important consideration would be to turn off the "extras." There was a time when you could buy a house with the necessities of the moment, at the right price. But these days a woman is wooed with an attractive floor plan, she approves it, and then finds out all the features that she can't do without are above the asking price.

That goes for the extra bathroom, the fireplace, certain kitchen features, the shade tree on the front lawn, and perhaps even the garage.

Give these home seekers what they need, and you can call off the magic flutes, boys. All we're asking for in a house is one that keeps up with the times.

Higher Costs
Dictate Need
For Quality

Builders to Have
More Incentive to Select Products

Better quality products will have to be built into the homes of the 1960's due to the higher costs of money and financing, according to James M. Ashley, former president of the Producers' Council, Inc.

"The builder and home owner will have more incentive in the future to carefully weigh his selection of the products specified for a home," said Ashley. "Increased costs of capital and financing will also make the lender more critical of the quality of property, the longevity of material and styling, and the soundness of the complete home."

Ashley said that conversely some of the unrealistic mortgage money rates of past years had encouraged cheap construction and lack of keen consideration on the part of buyers.

He said that the entire building industry is facing a fabulous demand for housing in the coming 1960's. Builders are going to be looking for the trademarked items to put into their homes not only as a guaranty of good service, style and comfort but also as a tip to the bankers and mortgage lenders that sound values are backing their loans.

Use of well-known American products are also a protection against some of the cheaper lines of foreign-made goods being offered to the building industry, he said.

Most home owners are gaining more information about trade-marked products through advertising, television and contacts with neighborhood dealers, he observed. Better acquaintance of the buyers with quality products, of course, will help this whole trend towards better homes.

Pencil, Old Book May be Marked Need for This Game

BY CAPPY DICK

This is a game to play with an old book in which you are free to make small pencil marks. Every 10, 15 or 20 pages throughout the book print small numbers in the lower left or right corners. These numbers should be 5, 10, 15, 20 and 25. Print more 5s than 10s, more 10s than 15s and so on. Only a few pages should be marked with 20 and 25. Beside 15 or 20 of the numbers through the book print a small star as shown in Figure 1.

Invite a friend to play the game with you (Figure 2). Each of you will need a slip of paper to use as a bookmark. Each prints his name on his bookmark. Then you take turns opening the book.

If a player opens the book at a page bearing a number, fifth page of the book. If number 15 had been on the page where he opened the book he would have placed his bookmark at the fifteenth page.

Advance Fee Operators Bilk Many Small Businessmen

BY BERNARD GAVZER
New York — Like millions of other Americans, you may have a small business or other property that you'd just as soon sell.
If the wrong guy gets to you, it can be quite costly — to you. This man may be one of the sharpies in the "advance fee" scheme — a racket which has taken victims for millions of dollars each year.
In the past, the advance fee racket concentrated on alleged sale of property, but since some operators were sent to jail, there has been a switch to loan schemes. Both operate the same way.
John Burke, the National Better Business bureau expert on such schemes, explains how they work:

Swindle

Splashy Deal

A fast-talking salesman, armed with impressive-looking brochures and similar props, assures you his firm has a buyer for your property or can get you one. He represents himself as an expert on property values. If you place a fair value of $8,000 on your property, he'll invariably tell you that in today's market it can bring $10,000 or $12,000. This is natural since the fee and his commission are based on a percentage of the claimed value rather than what it is, no matter what the salesman says, there is just one promise — to act as an advertising service.

Improvement Scheme

Because of successful prosecution of some operators, there has been a switch to allegedly obtaining loans for people who want to improve property or bolster ailing businesses. Burke says this still is worked as an advance fee scheme by some operators.

It should be pointed out that accepting a fee in connection with sale of business or securing loans has been a legitimate operation of some reputable firms for many years," says Burke. "The main difference between the legitimate firms and the sharp operators is that in the case of honest firms the fee usually covers reasonable expenses. The fee essentially is just peanuts and the only way the broker makes money is to make a sale. The advance fee sharpies, on the other hand, make handsome incomes solely on the basis of fees."

Use Safe Agencies

Burke's recommendations: "If you need a loan for your business, apply to reputable sources such as a bank or similar agency. If you are turned down, find out why.

If an advance fee operator offers to get you the loan, find out if the company he represents actually gives the loan or if the firm simply provides a 'service' to get a loan. Before signing any contract, demand evidence there are sources who will make the loan under circumstances the bank or other agency refused to."

The NBBB and interested government agencies report that victims in the advance fee schemes have been operators of small lunch rooms, delicatessens, shoe repair shops, barber shops and the like.

"We always say that the best way to protect yourself," says Burke, "is to investigate before investing. The Better Business bureau or chamber of commerce in your town is ready to help if you are approached by any of these advance fee operators."

Express Agency Office Closing Is Unopposed

PSC Hearing Reveals Proposed Plan Will Improve Area Service

Kaukauna—No one appeared in objection to the withdrawal of Railway Express service and closing of six Fox Cities offices at a Public Service commission hearing on the application of Railway Express Agency, Inc., at city hall Thursday.

J. W. Meisenheimer, division supervisor for the express agency, presented reasons for wishing to close the offices which will be studied by the PSC before a ruling is made. Emmet Rohan, Kaukauna city attorney, and Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon were presented on behalf of the city but made no objection.

Service Remains

Although the original application indicated the agency wished to withdraw service from Brillion, Hortonville, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Reedsville and Whitelaw, the latter two in Manitowoc county and Brillion in Calumet county, this applied to local representation only.

Service will be continued to the communities with the exception of Reedsville and Whitelaw. In Brillion, Hortonville, Kaukauna and Kimberly, pick-up and delivery service directly to customers within the corporate limits of those communities will be provided from the Appleton office. Formerly customers had to present themselves at the local depot in order to forward or receive traffic.

If the new plan is approved, customers need merely call the Appleton agency for delivery or pick-up. Telephone calls are without charge with the exception of Brillion and these calls to Appleton will be accepted on a collect basis, according to Meisenheimer.

Rates Unchanged

Present rates for all communities, but Reedsville, will remain the same. Reedsville, in a different block, may pay slightly more for shipments from the east, but could pay less for shipments from the west or mid-west. Reedsville traffic will be held at Appleton unless the customer specifies a shipment delivery place at Brillion or meets the agency truck at Brillion. Reedsville traffic can also be handled through the Manitowoc agency if desired.

Whitelaw traffic will be handled through Manitowoc where customers will pick up items. It is in the same area as Manitowoc thus rates will be unchanged.

Meisenheimer felt the change would be an improvement in service to all communities and pointed to the advantage of air express to these areas as Appleton has an airport office. Previously air express shipments for these towns had an extra charge but this would be eliminated to all towns but Whitelaw under the proposed change.

Harold McGinnis To Run Again Against Ald. Groh

Harold F. McGinnis, a former alderman, today assured the first contest of the spring city election by taking out nomination papers for Eighth ward alderman.

R. P. Groh, the incumbent, took out papers earlier in the week for reelection.

McGinnis, 49, of 218 S. Memorial drive, served as an alderman from 1955 to 1957, winning his first election after the incumbent, who had defeated him once before, decided not to run.

A general insurance agent, McGinnis was one of the aldermen squeezed out by re-election of April, 1958.

Cold Push Starts in Fox Cities

Colder weather is expected to push into the Fox Cities tonight and temporarily evict the warm air settled here.

Temperatures the last few days were unseasonably high. Normal high is 32. High recorded Thursday was 45.

The state completed another 24-hour period with no precipitation, although skies were cloudy at mid-morning.

Minimum temperatures in the early morning were in the 20s or 30s, or as much as 15 degrees above the normal for the season.

Small Share Price Changes

Steels, Motors Up Fractionally On N. Y. Exchange

New York — The stock market held to a decidedly narrow upside edge early this afternoon.

Narrow changes were the order of the day as the market seemed to be having trouble in shaking off an irregular pattern. Steels and motors swung over to the plus side with mostly fractional gains, but observers noted many small losses on the list as a whole. Aircrafts were weak.

Rails mostly were lower, erasing some of their recent gains, while the oil group also turned mixed. Electronics had a brief spurt of popularity early in the session, then settled back.

A few specialties managed gains of a point and more, notably Hertz, Revlon and Fruehauf Trailer. Hertz was off Thursday while brokers thought Revlon's rise could be traced to a normal technical recovery after the beating the issue took during the TV quiz hearings.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up a bare 10 cents, the minimum possible, at $225.80. All components showed narrow changes with industrials up 20 cents, rails down 20 cents and utilities up 10 cents.

Corporate bonds were mixed.

U.S. government bonds drifted lower.

Cement Company Maps $9 Million Expansion Plan

Cleveland — The Medusa Portland Cement company Thursday announced plans for additional production capacity and limestone lands costing $9 million.

The program is the first step in the company's $70 million, 10-year plan of expansion and modernization announced last August. It includes a one-million-barrel addition to the firm's plant at Dixon, Ill., which will add about 40 per cent to the plant's capacity.

"We have chosen Dixon as the place to add new capacity at this time because of the strong rate of growth in the northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin area," said Ellery Sedgwick, Jr., Medusa president.

The company said the program also will include installations for improved quality and cost reduction at its cement plants at York, Pa., and Toledo, Ohio, and its Wisconsin subsidiary, the Manitowoc Portland Cement company.

Medusa also is in the process of exercising options on more than 2,000 acres of new limestone reserves in southern Illinois near Ullin and south eastern Pennsylvania near Harrisburg.

Driver Says Signals Weren't on, Hits Engine

A car driven by Mrs. Peggy M. Griesbach, of 368 River drive, collided with a Chicago and North Western diesel switching engine in the 500 block of N. Oneida street about 8:25 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Griesbach was uninjured.

Mrs. Griesbach told police the automatic warning signals were not operating at the crossing. Engineer Carl C. Toth, 44, North Fond du Lac, said they were. Police said the signals were operating when they arrived at the crossing.

Birth Control Issue Hurts Democrats

Columnist Says Moral Questions Beyond Pale of Political Contests

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington — Sen. John F. Kennedy is the obvious sufferer in the phonest presidential-year issue in recent memory, the so-called birth-control issue.

But other Democratic presidential candidates will do well not to enjoy Kennedy's embarrassment to much. For the real sufferer is likely to be the whole Democratic party, along with the ultimate Democratic nominee, whoever he may be.

First, the background: (1) A presidential advisory commission headed by William H. Draper suggested our foreign aid program should include information on artificial birth prevention to those countries requesting it. (2) The Roman Catholic bishops, regarding artificial birth prevention as immoral, declared American Catholics would support no program promoting such prevention. (3) A demand arose, notably among Protestant clergymen, that Catholic presidential aspirants say whether the Catholic bishops' statement would be "binding" on them. The outstanding Catholic presidential aspirant is Sen. Kennedy.

Birth control involves deeply held private moral and religious convictions, which are no concern of this column. All the clergymen in this controversy are entitled, and even obliged to make any comment their consciences tell them to make.

The fundamental political fact is simply a political fact and not a matter of morals. There is not now and never was the slightest likelihood this government would try to make foreign aid dependent on what other countries do about birth control.

Rational political considerations, entirely apart from moral considerations, forbid such a step. Indeed, even to make the suggestion was an irresponsible act by the Draper commission.

U. S. Irresponsible It was irresponsible because it gave the world's communists an opportunity to cry the United States was attempting to force upon others its view on the most intimate affairs. It was irresponsible because it intimated the possibility of an action for which there is no possibility in fact.

It was irresponsible because the birth rate is highest in those lands in Asia and Africa to which we are trying most to appeal. It amounted to an implication that someone in power here would like to put a lesser value on babies in those lands than elsewhere. (It is ironic that many of those professional liberals who endlessly denounce the south for color discrimination are at the forefront of those who wish to discriminate, as to birth, against colored people everywhere.)

Those who wish to be unfair in a political year might consider this: No one has demanded that Vice President Nixon announce whether, as president and commander-in-chief of the armed forces, he would be bound by the anti-war convictions of his Quaker faith.

If he were asked such a question, Nixon, no doubt would reply just as Kennedy replied: In the last analysis he would be bound, as president, by an oath to serve the interests of the United States.

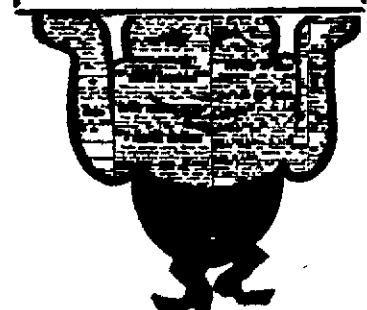

Though Kennedy alone may appear to have been hurt, the raising of this spurious issue has hurt more than Kennedy. Any effective attack on any party's front-running candidate will hurt the whole party. (Copyright 1959)
